Clete Roberts, WTAW war correspondent who was wounded in the Pacific, has been added to the cast of "The Story of GI Joe," motion picture adapted from Ernie Pyle's best seller, "Here Is Your War." The film, currently being produced under the watchful eye of war correspondent technical advisors, has many of World War II's best known reporters portraying themselves.

Gilbert Martin, whose WTAW's newscast is heard Monday through Friday at 10:30 a. m., CWT, on the Kellogg News program, prepares his daily stint in the full light of his thirteen year's experience as narrator, announcer and producer in radio and screen work.

It was soon after he finished college in 1931 that Martyn signed with a San Francisco firm as radio producer. A year later he moved to Hollywood and joined Fox Film as narrator, announcer and producer. Travalogue narration in Los Angeles and a job as announcer for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra followed.

By 1935 Martyn was certain of his forte-radio announcing. It was then he joined the Crosby Radio Corporation in Cincinnati, where he remained until he signed with NBC. In January, 1942, Gil joined the BLUE.

The tall, dark-haired Martyn has been doing the Kellogg News show for the last 18 months.

New Animal Dept. Is Established

In recognition of the growing emphasis on specific remedies for animal and plant diseases, McKesson & Robbins, Inc., has created a new Department of Animal Remedies and Agricultural Chemicals, according to William J. Murray, Jr., president of the wholesale drug firm, who announced recently the appointment of Dr. Walter Cecil Butler, of Fort Worth, Texas, to head the new department.

"McKesson & Robbins is increasingly aware of the recognition being given to animal health the country over", Mr. Murray said. "Current estimates indicate an annual loss of $750,000,000 in livestock alone. Roughly one-third of our 67 wholesale drug divisions are already reporting substantial growth in the sales of animal remedies. And what is happening in animal husbandry is being paralleled in the scientific approach to farm and garden crops.

"The status of treating animal diseases is nearly two generations behind that of caring for human ailments, but research and experimentation are now taking hold in the field of animal remedies where specific products, duly tested and standardized, are supplanting the 'shotgun cures' and 'old family remedies' of the past.

"In the case of treating plant diseases and providing proper soil nutrition, research and experimentation have stimulated similar advances; and the great increase in amateur gardening has added a broad public to the basic farm market for insecticides, agricultural chemicals and associated products. Here again McKesson's national network of service wholesale division provides a logical channel for distribution to retail outlets. We have therefore created a special department to bring to this new and rapidly growing field McKesson's century-old experience as a service wholesaler to the retail drug trade."

Dr. Butler will be attached to McKesson's main office in New York but will devote a substantial part of his time to visiting McKesson's principal divisions, holding regional conferences with retail druggists and developing group meetings with farmers and stockmen.

Announcement of Good Fire Record By City Manager

The City of College Station is enjoying a 25 percent good fire record which few cities have, states Lloyd Smith, manager. He says the residents of the city should be proud of this record as they made it possible.

Fire losses and premiums paid for the past five years are tabulated by the city office as follows:

Year	Fire Losses	Fire Prems.
1939	$ 322.19	$21,534.82
1943	398.00	15,566.17
1940	1,216.12	25,201.02
1941	2,228.08	16,022.19
1942	4,255.65	14,186.24
Totals	$8,420.04	$92,510.44

City Manager Smith makes these suggestions to assist in maintaining this good record: Do not burn rubbish that will cause fire on vacant lots; do not turn in a fire alarm for grass fires unless assistance is needed to save buildings, as the cost to the city for each call by the fire truck is $50, and this goes against the city's record.

College Station has a voluntary fire department and each call takes about 20 men away from essential duties. However, if homes or other building are endangered a call should be made as quickly as possible.
