CHS Choral Groups Present Show Tonight

"An hour and a half of good vocal entertainment" is slated for 8 p. m. today at A&M Consolidated High School Auditorium as choral groups at the school present the Annual Night of Music, according to Robert L. Boone, director of music.

Residents of the area are invited to observe and hear the groups blend their voices after a year of preparation for the climax of their efforts. No admission will be charged.

Participating in the program will be four choruses, several soloists and a trio of boys known at the "Tritones". Members of the trio are Mark Luther, Bill Armistead and Tommie Letbetter.

A mixed chorus of high schoolers, mixed chorus of junior high students and both a boys' and girls' chorus of junior high students are listed on the program, in addition to the soloists.

"Bright and lively numbers will compose the program and Boone promises to exclude "long hair". Broadway Show Time, hit tunes and popular numbers will be offered, Boone said.

To climax the night of music, all chorus groups will combine their 120 voices to present Fred Waring's "Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Maestros will be Boone and Frank Coulter, director of junior high music.

"Long hair" music will be presented during a program Sunday afternoon. But the other kind of music will be emphasized just as much then, Boone says, for both heavy and light numbers are planned for the program at 3 p. m. in the Memorial Student Center Ballroom.

Included will be selections ranging from Bach to Bop. The CHS 55-piece Concert Band will be the performer Sunday afternoon.

Like tonight's program, there will be no admission charge. And the Ballroom was obtained so the audience can listen in cool, relaxed comfort.

On the light side, piano soloist Johnny Turner will play "Concerto in Jazz" along with the band.

Other numbers on the varied program include "River Jordan," "Meditations from Thais," "Tribute to Benny Goodman" and the "North Sea Overture."

Ernest Tanzer, Tom Ivy and Junius Clarke will raise their two trumpets and a trombone, respectively, to do "Concerto Grosso."

—Off the Cuff—
What Goes On Here

College fire-fighters were called last night shortly after 7 to check on a blaze in the Academic Building. While students wrung their hands, and the stalwart smoke-trackers searched for their map of the campus, a janitor calmly located the fire—which consisted of a half-dozen smouldering paper towels in the basement of the building. Now finals can't be that tough—or can they?

Come And Get It!

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Firemen attending a luncheon given by the local Fire Prevention Council had to leave their food and race away in a fire truck left outside for just such an emergency.

Somebody had failed to prevent a fire.

Cooking food had caught fire in a home. No serious damage, except for the cooling effect on the firemen's dinners, was reported.

LOEFFLER STAYS

one which Loeffler flatly denies, was in paragraph 2(b) of the SWC findings: "A round trip airline ticket from College Station, Texas to Providence, R. I., was illegally provided for a basketball player by a representative of Texas A&M College at Christmas, 1955."

The president in answer to the charge comments, "It is alleged that Coach Loeffler or his agent gave Alex Roberts the ticket for this trip. This, Coach Loeffler flatly denies. No substantiating evidence has accompanied this charge."

He continues, "The rules of fair play demand, under such circumstances, that Coach Loeffler be considered innocent until proof to the contrary is produced."

Regardless of what action the SWC or NCAA takes, a precedent has been set by school officials in backing the accused to the hilt and saying publicly and for the record, "We find no fault with our man."

Now its up to the NCAA as to what disposition is to be made of the case and they haven't been favorable with their decisions concerning A&M in the past.
