Americas new team

NEW ORLEANS (AP) – team has seized the spotligh enjoyed the glare. The oth seeking both as an affirmati its status.

How come it's the team that small town in middle Am that gets nearly all the atten and the guys from a northea hub who can't get noticed?

The Green Bay Packers, sta a strong claim for replacing Dallas Cowboys as Ameri Team, have the stars and the ries, the heroes and the histor

Brett Favre is a two-time who has overcome an addicti pain-killers and a painful of son of personal tragedies. Re White is the career sacks le and an ordained minister wh church in Tennessee was tord a year ago. They have led famed franchise to its first Su Bowl in 29 years, reviving tale Lombardi and Lambeau, of the Bowl and 11 NFL titles.

They clearly have arrived at center of the sports stage.

"Because of everybo anointing us as the Super B team — everybody but us — impressed with how we've ha dled it," Shurmur said. "We hardly been around the bloc and all these people were say we would be here.

"This team has done a m velous job of handling every situ tion and all the predictions. Y talk about character and digni and doing their job with all the things going on around them, it applies to this team."

While the New Englan Patriots seem to get along just well together, they do it in relatio anonymity. Except for coach Bill Parcells, 2-0 in Super Bowls wit the New York Giants, and per haps quarterback Drew Bledso — for being the top overall draf pick in 1993 and not for the kind of things Favre has achieved as pro — the Patriots are a some what faceless bunch.

Bledsoe sees positives and neg-atives in the situation.

"No. 1, we don't have the same amount of demands on us as Packers do," Bledsoe said, "a No. 2, we are using it as moti tion. If you're a regular guy, all y see and hear is Packers."

"It's kind of frustrating th we're not getting the respect t they are," Patriots cornerback Law said, "because we are a go football team, too. I don't th anybody has recognized that think a lot of guys are going take that personally and, hopef ly, that will help them fuel the f and make them drive to want win this thing."

And win away the spotlight.

LADY AGGIES

"It's not going to be easy going on the road and getting win. Win or lose, though, we ne to give all we have and recogni our limits."

Both Linder and Harvey s the confidence level of the team still high and rises with improv ment. Defeating Oklahoma St University and knowing th could have beat Kansas he them to keep things in persp tive, Linder said.

"We do need to have some w though," she said. "Yes, we improving every game. But a would help us to know we are re ly getting better."

SWIMMING

Texas' Adam Creasy is th toughest competition — Crea placed fourth to Naftanel's fi on platform in that competiti and should prove to be a tou competitor in his home pool.

However, the Aggies are strangers to the pool in Austi Diederich is a returning lette man who has competed numerous meets at the Tex Swimming Center, and Naftan is an Austin native who do with the club team in Austi before coming to A&M.

"I feel comfortable there Naftanel said, whose family w be in the stands watching.

The matchup between th Aggies and the Longhorns th Saturday is the last time the tw teams will swim against eac other before the conferenc championships in Februar when both teams will also fac the threat of a talente Nebraska team.
