

Prof. McDonald to Direct War Aims Courses

Prof. J. F. McDonald, chief inspector of High schools for the state department of education, has accepted a position in the College as director of the war aims courses for both the student body and the soldiers in training here. He is an A B graduate of Baylor and Yale and holds the M A. degree from Chicago. Prior to going with the state department of education he was professor of history and economics in Simmons College, Abilene. He will be assisted in giving the war aims courses by several other men who have had special training in history and economics.

Rules Given for Mail Delivery

Mail coming to the Faculty Exchange post office just now is exceedingly heavy and all persons are asked to comply with the rules of the office in not asking for mail until the delivery window is open. Constant interruptions while the mail is being assorted will only serve to delay the opening of the window. No stamps
