

STUDENT HEALTH SITUATION WELL IN HAND.

Marked progress is noted in the recovery of the students who have been afflicted during the current epidemic and so encouraging is the situation that the physicians and officials feel now that the worst has passed and that with favorable weather and due precaution on the part of the students the epidemic will soon have passed.

Dr. Oliver of Bryan is in charge of the situation as it affects the students, assisted by Dr. Hunnicutt of Bryan, Mrs. Burroughs, acting head nurse, and Miss Austin, another trained nurse. Other nurses have been employed, so that it is possible to place one in charge of each floor day and night. In addition, three relays of orderlies are on duty daily, keeping the hospital in order and assisting the nurses with individual patients where such patients are seriously ill. Special food is prepared in the hospital kitchen for the patients, under the direction of the head nurse and Dr. J. J. Taubenhause, who supervises the distribution.

Women on the Campus have visited the dormitories regularly under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Nagle, taking the temperatures of the indisposed and waiting on them otherwise, and seeing that those who were seriously ill were sent to the hospital. Meals have been specially prepared for these students at the Mess hall, under the direction of Miss Laura Neale and her staff, as has been previously noted in these columns.

Marked improvement has been noted in the situation of the students the past two days, Dean Kyle reports. Twenty-two cases were discharged from the hospital Tuesday, and only eight new cases taken in, while Wednesday twelve cases were discharged and seven taken in. There are only a few cases of pneumonia among the students but the majority of these are getting along well and their early recovery is anticipated.
