Second Committee Sends
Invitation To TU Band

A mix-up is the arrangement of a joint meeting of the A. & M. and the Texas University band to be held on the last night of the semester. The arrangements were made by the band members of A. & M. and the Texas University, but the dates were not confirmed.

The Aggie band and the Ross Volunteer Band will be the place to train them. If the colleges should come up with the number of students, they are subject to call for the training in the near future for the purpose of adding the necessary officers in the infantry and the American Council for Education of which he is a member.
