Rise Stevens Show Is Second Town Hall Feature Tonight

Rise Stevens, one of the world's most outstanding concert singers, will present a recital at the second Town Hall program tonight at 8 in the Guild Hall.

Miss Stevens, who is said to have a pair of the world's ten most beautiful eyes, has had her popularity grow with the public from season to season. Her fame now extends to all fields of entertainment—concert, opera, radio, motion pictures, and recordings.

On her program will be some well known Negro Spirituals: "Oh, What a Beautiful City," "Were You There," and "My Good Lord Done Been Here." She will also sing excerpts from "Carmen," "Havavava," "Seguidilla," and "Gypsy Song." Handel's "He Shall Feed His Flock" from "The Messiah" will be the first number on the program.

She was born in New York City and has been singing since she was ten years old. She studied music at the Julliard School of Music on a scholarship, and then went to Europe to study music at the Gutheil-Schoder Music School.

In 1936 Miss Stevens made her operatic debut at the Prague Opera House, in the title role of "Mignon." Following this performance, she sang opera in Vienna, Cairo, and at the Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires.

She has appeared with most of the world's leading opera companies such as the Metropolitan Opera, the San Francisco Opera Co., the Paris Grand Opera, the Vienna State Opera, and many others.

Miss Stevens starred in such pictures as "The Chocolate Soldier," "Carmegie Hall" and the Academy Award winning "Going My Way." She refused long-term movie contracts because her work and time in opera comes first, she claims.

Once each year she makes a standing winter engagement at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, where she appears in her famous roles such as "Carmen," "Der Rosenkavalier," "Mignon," "Sampson and Delilah."

Miss Stevens is heard regularly on leading national radio programs, such as Voice of Fire-

Texas University Tops Ags on AP Football Poll

Based On AP Release

They replaced Notre Dame, fifth last week, and Ohio State, which was No. 9.

California was voted No. 1 team. Michigan State, the top team for the first two weeks, skidded to third, as Tennessee moved into the No. 2 spot.

Others in the top 10 this week: Georgia Tech, No. 5; Maryland No. 7, and Illinois, No. 8.

The story in yesterday's Battalion concerning the AP poll was erroneous and the results above are the correct poll which Associated Press released last night.

Plans Announced For Fort Worth Corps Trip

Plans for the cadet corps parade and review in Fort Worth Saturday at the first of two scheduled Corps Trips this year were announced by Corps Operation Officer Billy Turner today.

The parade will assemble on the lot east of Main Street underpass, the same place used for the parade assembly area during the Corps Trip two years ago. Cadet commanders, guidon bearers and color guards will be required to report at 8:30 a.m. and all other cadets must be present by 9 a.m., Turner said.

The first elements of the parade will step off at 10 a.m.

Feature event of the Corps Trip will be the A&M-TCU football game in TCU stadium at 2 p.m. Saturday. The Aggies will face their first conference opponent, while the Horned Frogs play their second Southwest Conference tilt. TCU defeated Arkansas 17-7 two weeks ago before bowing to Texas Tech 33-19 last Saturday.

Girls from A&M's "sister school" TSCW will also get a holiday Saturday and all indications show that hundreds of the lassies from the Denton school will be on hand for the occasion.

Miss Wanda Harris, recently selected Aggie Sweetheart for 1951-52, will be presented at half-time at the game in conjunction with the band's performance.

The Corps Staff will lead the parade and will be followed by the Band, Armor Regiment, Engineer Regiment, Composite Regiment, Seventh Regiment, Artillery Regiment, Infantry Regiment, First Air Force Wing, Second Air Force Wing, Freshman Band, and the Freshman Regiment.

Buses to Stadium

Buses marked TCU will be parked on Main Street between Third and Eighth Streets for transportation to the stadium after the parade.

For those cadets who will arrive in Fort Worth late without time to check baggage before the parade assemblies, trucks will be available at the assembly area to keep luggage until after the parade. Baggage will be picked up from the trucks at the band instrument loading area on Houston Street.

Details for the bi-annual Corps Trip were arranged last week by Corps students and Col. Bowden who talked with Fort Worth City officials in the City Hall there Tuesday.

Student Life Meets, Organizes for Year

By JOHN WHITMORE
Battalion Editor

The Student Life Committee cleared the decks for action yesterday when they held their first meeting of the year. The most pressing item on the agenda was the establishment of a regular meeting date.

On a motion by Jim Martin, non-military member, Ken Wiggins was named parliamentarian by acclamation. It will be his duty to decide matters of constitutional practice. Wiggins is a member from the Student Senate.

The group decided to hold the meeting on the third Monday of each month. A report by the business sub-committee was heard by the student-faculty group.

At a meeting earlier in the year, the Business Sub-committee awarded the contract for commencement invitations and dance programs to the Southern Engraving Company of Houston.

Bids on a three year medal contract were postponed and the original bids sent back to the bidders for a new estimate. This action was taken, the Business Committee reported, because all of the bids were termed "too high."

C. G. "Spike" White, assistant to the dean for student activities and secretary of the organization, told the new members the relationship the Student Life Committee had with the table of organization of the college.

Part of Academic Council

The committee is a student-faculty committee of the Academic Council. It is organized for the purpose of considering policies and procedures affecting the student life and making recommendations to the council on student activity matters.

Committee members are made up of nine faculty members and 11 students. Faculty members are appointed by the president of the college for terms of one year.

The student members of the organization are made up of the Colonel of the Corps, president of the senior class, president of the junior class, editor of The Battalion, four members of the Student Senate and three non-military students elected for a term of one year.

Political Fireworks Popping Over Nation

By Associated Press

Pre-campaign fireworks were set off yesterday as separate Republican booms warmed up for Senator Robert A. Taft, General Dwight D. Eisenhower and California's Gov. Earl Warren.

Taft is widely expected to announce his candidacy at a news conference today.

At supreme allied headquarters in Europe, Gen. Eisenhower received an Ike-for-President button with a smile but without any comment on his political intentions.

Political Convictions

Aides said Eisenhower has deep political convictions, but is anxious to avoid any statement that might interfere with the task of bolstering western Europe's defenses.

Lester Allen, chief editorial writer for the Boston Post, presented the lapel button to Ike during a luncheon attended by 16 American newsmen at Eisenhower's headquarters.

The button carried the legend "Be Right With Ike" and bore a picture of the five-star general against a red, white and blue background.

In Seattle, Wash., scouts for Eisenhower and Taft openly bid for support at a western Republican conference while California boosters put out feelers on behalf of Gov. Warren.

Guy G. Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee, told the conference that a major issue in the 1952 election campaign will center on what he termed widespread corruption in the Truman administration.

Capacity Crowd Jams CHS Gym to See Kiwanis Kapers

By FRANK DAVIS
Battalion City Editor

A capacity crowd jammed A&M Consolidated gymnasium last night to see the first production of Kiwanis Kapers, a home talent show presented by the College Station Kiwanis Club.

Directed by C. K. Esten, faculty sponsor for the Aggie Players, the show combined local and college talent to make a program which was described as excellent.

The show got under way with two selections by the 35 voice A&M Consolidated High School Chorus under the direction of Bob Boone. A can-can dance by four well known city men was cancelled at the last moment, and a medley on the piano by Miss Betty Bolander was substituted.

The audience also rose in their seats in response to the two sons of Coach and Mrs. Ray George.

Greg, 3, and Jack, 8, sang several Aggie songs including "The Twelfth Man." Dressed in cowboy attire, Greg and Jack were especially welcomed by the younger members of the audience.

Portraying a bewildered army recruit, Stuart Helvey, turned in a performance which delighted the majority of the audience. Told in a style all his own, Helvey delivered his lines with vigor and feeling despite the handicap of bad acoustics in the building.

Sue Shannon, star of the Aggie Players summer production "Pinafore," combined a lovely stage personality with a well trained voice to entertain the audience with "Romance." She was followed on the program by Billy Singleton, A&M student who attempted to sell the audience on the merits of "Smooth Gin."

"Smooth Gin," Singleton said, "comes in two sizes, the high school size and the college size." While illustrating the fine qualities of his

House Okehs Measure to Aid Reservists

Washington, Oct. 16—(AP) A bill to create three classes of military reservists and limit the president's power to call them up was passed by the House yesterday.

The measure was approved and then sent to the Senate.

It would divide the reservists into ready, standby and retired classifications, with the latter two liable for active duty only in time of war or after Congress has declared a national emergency.

The President would have authority to call the ready reserve to active duty for a period not exceeding two years. Congress would retain the right, however, to limit the number of ready reservists the President could summon.

Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.), a captain in the Naval Reserve, called the new legislation "a bill of rights" for future reservists. The proposed reorganization is intended to give reservists definite status so they will know what their responsibilities are in times of national crisis.

Wearing blue satin gowns, four members of the choral group at A&M Consolidated High School sang "Tell Me a Story," and "In the Evening." Sara Puddy, Wanda Goodwin, Glenda Brown, and Louisa Street made up the girl's quartet which has appeared before many clubs in the community before last night.

No show is complete without a clown, and the Kiwanis Kapers filled the bill in the person of Curtis Harlan, who sadly played a trombone number, competing with numerous interruptions by Joe Sorrels.

South Texas ASME Meet Slated Here

Mechanical engineers from all over the South Texas Section will meet here Thursday to hold their annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

On hand for the all day session will be men considered tops in the engineering field. They are represented by such personalities as Prof. Carl J. Eckhardt of Texas University. He is the national vice president of the ASME and is known in the state as a teacher, consultant and working engineer.

Lichtenstein from New York

Dr. Joseph Lichtenstein, chairman of the ASME Cooling Tower Test Code Committee is coming to the meeting from New York. He will tell the members of the South Texas Chapter about the new draft of the code that his committee has developed.

The session will get underway at 4:30 p.m. Thursday on the second floor of the MSC when the delegates register for the meeting. After registering, students will take the guests on a tour of the engineering facilities of the campus. They will also visit Eastwood Airport.

While at the college owned flying field, they will go through the A&M Wind Tunnel. Moving back on the campus they will inspect the A. C. Network Calculator in the Electrical Engineering Building. Water Cooling tower research facilities and fan testing laboratories will also be shown to the guests.

Final items on the tour will be an inspection of the Ordnance gage laboratory and heat pump laboratory.

The hour preceding the 7 p.m. banquet, the members and guests will have a social opportunity on the second floor lounge of the MSC to meet informally the honored guest of the meeting.

No speakers will be scheduled for the banquet which will be held in the Assembly Room. Ruling out a dinner speaker was done because the technical sessions will be (See ASME MEET, Page 4)

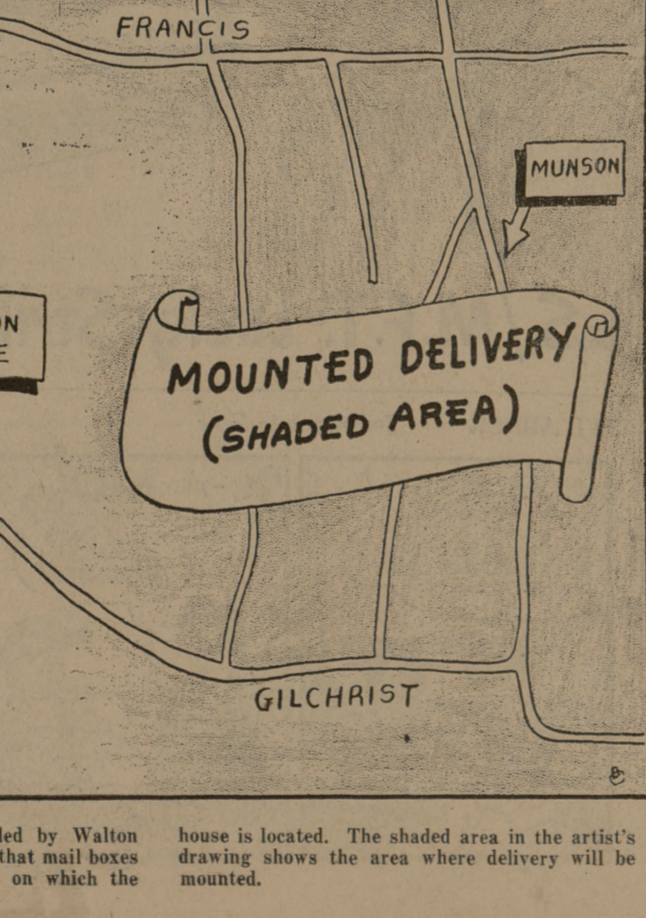

Paulson Speaks At Lions Club

Dr. W. E. Paulson of the Agricultural Economics and Sociology Department spoke to members of the College Station Lions Club Monday on District Governor Week.

A member of the local club which met in the MSC for its weekly session, Dr. Paulson discussed the jobs and responsibilities of district governors of Lions International.

He also explained a few details concerning the history and growth of Lions International.

Carleton Chapman was admitted to the club as a new member.

The area in College Hills bounded by Walton Drive and Francis Street requires that mail boxes be erected adjacent to the street on which the house is located. The shaded area in the artist's drawing shows the area where delivery will be mounted.

Singing Cadets Give Program At State Fair

Bill Turner's Singing Cadets got their 1951-52 season underway by representing A&M at the State Fair in Dallas on Texas A&M System Day, Oct. 7.

Last Monday, the Cadets entertained the Texas Junior College conferees in the MSC, Wednesday, they sang for the Association of Governing Boards of State Universities and Allied Institutions, which met at A&M.

Turner, beginning his eighth year as director of the group, said that this year the Cadets will have a much larger program than in 1950-51.

The expanded schedule is due partly to the many new members of singers this season.

Included on the agenda for the coming months are trips to Alice, Harlingen, and Kingsville just prior to the Christmas holidays.

Officers for the year are Thomas Savage, president, Harold Hughes, vice-president, Bill Pirtle, business manager, John Hildebrand, librarian, and Leonard Eddy, acting reporter-historian.

Meyers to Speak At ASCE Meeting

Boyd S. Meyers, consultant engineer from Houston, will speak before the student chapter ASCE Tuesday after yall practice. The subject of his talk will be "Welded Steel Construction."

Meyers has been an engineer in Houston for many years, participating in the design of many impressive buildings in the city, said Bob Brown, president of the A&M ASCE chapter.

TOUGH LUCK Department: It's a shame the poor sophomores on the West wing of Duncan Mess Hall don't have movie star visitors every night, or at least one a week so they can get a rest from the regular chore of supplying their table with water.

Seniors eager for a close up view of the young starlets who visited our campus last week graciously took advantage of an excuse to go near the Hollywood visitor's table, and made sure everyone at their table drank lots of water.

TODAY'S CHILDREN: Said a four year old College View lass to a five year old neighborhood boy-friend, "Let's play house."

His reply: "Let's play like it's morning and I'm getting ready to go to class and you are getting ready to go to work..."

My, but don't they like to follow papa and mama's example!
