Cadets Out For Vengeance In Grudge Game With TCU

These Ags . . .

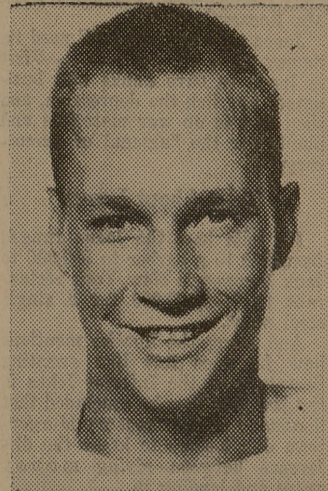

Dick Frey
Tackle

Two Game Movies On QB Club Sked

Two movies are on slate for the Quarterback Club meeting tonight in the Assembly Hall. After a speech by Clark Nealon, sports editor of the Houston Post, movies of the A&M-Trinity game and movies of the A&M-Texas Tech games will be shown.

Raymond Haas
Left Halfback

Raymond hit his stride in the Trinity game, scoring two touchdowns. Haas has great potentialities as a back; he will have to fill the shoes of Lippman, McDonald and Lary next fall at the left half position.

Ags Suffer Terrific Defeats In Cowtown

Texas A&M was handed humiliating defeats the last two times they engaged the Horned Frogs in Fort Worth. The Cadets will be out to avenge these defeats Oct. 20 at Amon Carter Stadium.

In 1947 the Purple and White defeated the Aggies 26-0 and 28-6 in 1949. These were the worst defeats absorbed by the Cadets in the 46 year series. Only one other time did the Frogs trample the Aggies as thoroughly, that was in the Davy O'Brien era, 34-6 in 1938.

Not since 1943 have the Aggies beaten TCU in Ft. Worth. The series is reaching jinx proportions. The Cadets held the edge in the series 25 to 17 plus four ties.

Coach Dutch Meyer is highly respected in the Southwest. When the T formation craze hit college football, Meyer stayed with his spreads and double wing formations and continued to produce winners. His last championship eleven was in 1944.

This cagy mentor enjoys 28 years of longevity in the Southwest Conference. Meyer-coached elevens hold a games-won edge on all conference elevens except SMU.

Under the able leadership of Gilbert Bartosh, All-American quarterback candidate, the Frogs might go "all-the-way" to the conference championship this year. The squad has depth and precision. In Keith Flowers, linebacker, they have a top-notch defender. Flowers, who kicks off and kicks the points after touchdowns for TCU, has been frequently mentioned as an All-American candidate.

Bounding Bobby Floyd, offensive fullback, led the team's scoring last year with 48 points. Floyd's running style is unique. His leaping tactics highlighted last year's victories over Rice and SMU. When confronted by a would-be tackler, Floyd leaped over the surprised opponent and romped on to the goal line.

Two offensive wingmen, Teddy Vought and Wilson George, will bear watching by the Aggies. George is the team's best receiver. This fast and rangy blond caught 23 tossed last year for 350 yards.

Herbert Zimmerman, 205 pound defensive lineman, specializes in blocking punts. Last year Zimmerman blocked a punt by SMU's Kyle Rote that proved to be the turning point of the struggle. Perhaps the speediest man on the team labels Alton Taylor, offensive guard. One of the best open field blockers in the business, Taylor weighs a light 180 pounds.

Tackle positions are in the hands of Douglas Conaway and Norman Hughes. Lack of reserve strength at tackles may trouble Meyer if either of these veterans is injured.

Roy Pitcock, veteran letterman at center, has also been subbing as an end on defense. When Pitcock moves over to the wing position, Carlton McCormack, a 240 pound giant, takes over the pivot post.

TCU has been plagued with "knee" trouble the entire season. Bartosh, Mal Fowler, and Keith Flowers underwent knee operations last Spring. Fowler, an excellent wingback prospect was lost indefinitely to the Frogs when he re-injured his knee against Arkansas.

Flowers came out of the Arkansas game limping but in all probability will be ready for the Aggies. Bartosh is the other big "if" on the knee question. A stand-out in 1950 on "one-leg", Gil holds the key to the Frogs' success or failure.

. . . Stood Out

Pete Mayeaux
Right Halfback

This speedster from the Bayou country shows great promise as the season progresses. Pete showed he had the stuff in the Tech and Trinity games and will be greatly needed next year to replace graduating stars Tidwell, Saxe, and Shaeffer at the right half slot.

Sports Editor Of Post to Give Talk

Clark Nealon, sports editor of the Houston Post, will be the main speaker at the Quarterback Club meeting tonight. The meeting will be held at 7:45 in the Assembly Hall.

Topic of Nealon's talk has not been announced.

W. T. Rush
Offensive Guard

Rush lives up to his name, as he is one of the most aggressive men on the Cadet eleven. Rush played 194 minutes of football last season and has been an outstanding performer at guard this year.
