

A Final Tribute

TODAY FINAL TRIBUTE will be paid to a man who contributed the last 25 years of his life to A&M College and the community of College Station.

That man, Mason L. Cashion, died Tuesday night in a Houston hospital. He had been ill several months prior to his death.

Cashion served as general secretary of the YMCA. But to thousands of Aggies he has served as a "second father". He came to A&M in 1926 and served with the school and community until his death.

His life was devoted to the social and spiritual welfare of students and he was one of the most widely known men in this college field.

He was an outstanding civic and church leader and has played a major role in the civic and cultural progress of College Station.

However, he is best known to Aggies and Aggie-exes for his untiring friendship and willingness to help and give advice.

Cashion will always be remembered for his contributions to the progress and future of A&M and College Station.

One reason so many luxuries are being bought is that, at these prices, necessities are too expensive.

Newspaper work is so much fun. Where else could a man be so consistently wrong and get paid for it.

So far, in the history of the nation, no presidential candidate has suggested that somebody else might make a better president.

Drill Field Claimed Most Abused Area

By R. BRAVO
Battalion Staff Writer

Three inches of water is the only difference between the condition of the drill field and the rest of the campus according to A. F. DeWerth, professor of floriculture and landscape architecture.

In discussing summer campus upkeep practices, DeWerth who is in charge of campus maintenance said, "Usually all parts of the campus are given equal attention." "The exception at present is the drill field which we have irrigated in order to save the seed previously planted and also because it is one of the most abused areas on the campus."

DeWerth emphasized that there is a force of about 25 men working through the entire year on campus upkeep. Usually there are from six to eight of these men who do non-productive work, spending days picking up papers and coke bottles strewn over the grounds by "unthinking" Aggies. Most of the summer work is routine moving, trimming and wa-

Garbage Room In MSC Remodeled

Flies are to be excluded from MSC activities, according to J. W. Stark, director of the MSC.

The garbage room, which was too small, too hard to keep clean, and not fly-proof, was the source of most flies found in the MSC, Stark said.

A $1,500 remodeling project was begun in July, and is expected to be completed by Aug. 15. For the first time in two years, MSC employees can keep the garbage room clean and sanitary without back breaking labor.

Stark said cleaning will now be done by spraying live steam on the newly constructed tile walls.

Three A&M Cadets Graduate at Camp

Three A&M ROTC cadets were among the 48 graduates of the Chemical ROTC summer camp held at Fort McClellan, Ala., from June 20 to August 1. During the summer camp period cadets received training in general military subjects as well as specialized training in Chemical Corps subjects.

The three cadets, James Balentine, Francis Atken, and Kenneth Rollins, completed their college and military science requirements at A&M. The summer camp enabled them to put into actual practice the theories and principle they learned in the classroom.

Upon completion of the summer camp they were awarded appointments as second lieutenants in the Chemical Corps Reserve.
