City Council

The report recommended that the city comply with the State Highway department's proposal to widen the highway to 64 feet, using the same design as "that part in the City of Bryan which extends from the court house north to the intersection of highway 21."

It further recommended that all property bordering this improvement except that part belonging to the state be assessed at $2 per front foot. This would amount to about one-half of the cost, the committee said.

The council felt it would be a year or longer before the highway department would begin work on the project.

Canceled Taxes

The council also canceled $802.15 in personal taxes that have been delinquent since 1951. This covers such taxes not paid between 1939-51. An additional $660.24 in real property taxes, however, was not canceled.

In other action, the council recommended that City Attorney J. Wheeler Barger write an addition to the building permits issued by the city. The new restriction would require a person applying for a permit to certify that he was complying with all sub-division restrictions.

The action was brought before the council by a group headed by Capt. M. D. Carlson. The group wanted the restriction because "city permits were allowing acts contrary to deed restrictions."

The re-zoning of the lots west of the clinic at Jersey and old highway 6, owned by A. Stone Jones, was referred to the zoning committee. The lots are now zoned for apartments.
