

BOBBY MARKS

Senior terminal Marks is the leading touchdown pass receiver on the Aggie squad. He hails from deep in Sugar Bowl land in New Orleans. One of the best blocking ends in the conference. He's 21-year-old, 6-1 and 195. Bobby played forty quarters as a junior and was a starter most of the time. He's still a starter for the Aggies.

JIMMY WRIGHT

Jimmy is a senior signal-caller from deep, deep in the heart of Texas. Edinburg claims this blond-haired hard-throwing quarterback as its very own. Wright, 6-0 and 175, is one of the leading passers on the squad. Personally engineered the downfall of the Rice Owls in 1955 as a sophomore.

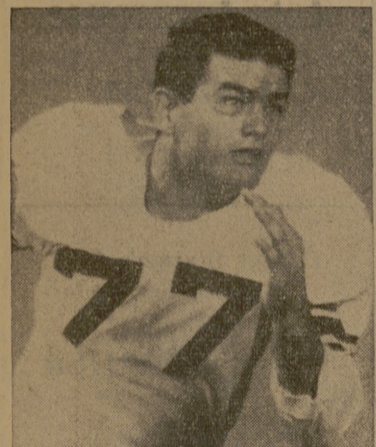

JOHN GILBERT

The biggest question at the start of the season was center, but John Gilbert, senior center from the hills of Russellville, Ark. filled the bill for Bryant. He's not too big; only 6-1 and 200 pounds, but learned the intricacies of being a linebacker very well. Has lots of spirit.

CARLOS ESQUIVEL

Carlos, a running mate of Jimmy Wright in his high school days in Edinburg is one of the best safety men the Cadets possess. He's followed Crow and Osborne in the left half slot, but always performs creditably when the chips are down and he is needed. He averages 11.6 yards per punt return. Carlos is 6-0, and weighs 175 pounds.

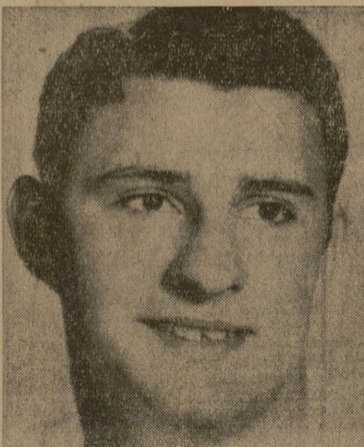

DARRELL BROWN

Darrell, or "Brownie" as he is called, returned to play for the Aggies this year after a one-year battle with the books. He has started on numerous occasions at guard, even though he's a little small for the job at 6-1 and 195. Used to be a tackle. One of the original "Junction Babies."

HENRY PEARSON

Henry is a six-foot tall end from Temple, Texas. He has been hampered by injuries but will be able to see action against the Orange and White. Returned to A&M after a short stay in the armed forces. Has played tackle, guard and finally, end. Henry weighs 172 pounds.

Turkey Day Winner On Kyle Field May Be '58 Cotton Bowl Performer

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

You might say tomorrow's football game between Texas and Texas A&M has that holiday flavor. What happens in College Station on Thanksgiving Day 1957 is going to have a lot to do with who plays in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day 1958.

The Aggie-Longhorn clash heads a list of eight major traditional games scheduled from New England to the Rocky Mountains, and is one of two on which bowl bids hinge.

The Texas-Texas A&M game will be televised by NBC in the South, Southwest and Midwest, and a portion of it, probably the last half, in the East. Eastern viewers first will see the traditional Brown-Colgate game from Providence, R. I. The Far West TV game is Wyoming at Denver.

Houston Cougars List Three Aggies

Auburn, the No. 1 team in the nation, placed four players on an all-opponents football team selected by the University of Houston Cougars.

The first team also included three players from Texas A&M. Oklahoma State, Miami, Mississippi and Baylor had one each.

John Crow, Texas A&M halfback, was the only unanimous choice.

Jimmy Phillips, Auburn end, missed unanimous selection by one vote.

Others on the first team included Jim Wood, Oklahoma State, end; Charles Krueger, Texas A&M, and Charles Diamond, Miami, tackles; Jackie Simpson, Mississippi, and Clyde Letbetter, Baylor guards; Jackie Burkett, Auburn, center; Roddy Osborne, Texas A&M, quarterback; Bobby Hoppe, Auburn, halfback, and Billy Atkins, Auburn, fullback.

Aggies Loosen Up McClelland Has Flu

Texas A&M held a loosening workout for less than an hour yesterday. The squad worked in sweat clothes.

A shorter practice of the same variety is planned today on the eve of the Aggies' big football game with Texas.

Reserve end Don McClelland was out with the flu. Other players were reported in good condition.

Gator Bowl Meets; Aggies Considered

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 25 —(AP)—The Gator Bowl selection committee will meet today to consider teams for the Dec. 28 game but no immediate announcement of a team is expected.

Teams under consideration are West Virginia, Boston College, Mississippi, Mississippi State, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Rice, Texas A&M, Texas and Arkansas.

Other Turkey Day games are Cornell at Penn, Richmond at William and Mary, Miami (Ohio) at Cincinnati and Utah State at Utah.

A few weeks ago it looked as if the Texas-Texas A&M game would be just for the record, but when Rice upset the Aggies two Saturdays ago, the conference race was thrown into the usual Southwest turmoil.

If Texas should beat A&M it might win the conference championship and pick up an automatic ticket to the Cotton Bowl. If A&M wins it can either tie for or win the loop title. In any event, the winner of the game can figure on going to the Sugar Bowl, even if it doesn't win the Southwest crown.

All this hedging is the result of a game scheduled Saturday at Houston. Rice plays Baylor in that one, and a victory would give Rice the Southwest championship if A&M loses to Texas. If A&M wins, Rice could tie for the title.

Win or tie for the crown, Rice gets the Cotton berth because it defeated the Aggies 7-6 during the regular season. If Texas beats A&M, and then Rice loses, Texas picks up all the marbles in the Southwest, and the Sugar Bowl boys will have to take one of the losers or look elsewhere.

Midway during the first Princeton-Yale football game in 1873 the football burst. The game was delayed a half hour before the players could locate another ball.
