SWC Spring Football Closes; Aggies Start Drills March 31

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
 Texas Associated Press Sports Editor

All Southwest Conference football squads have finished spring training except Texas A&M and Arkansas. The Aggies start March 31. Arkansas is waiting until later. In fact, Arkansas will be playing football at the time of the Southwest Conference spring meet. As a result the Razorbacks won't even send trackmen. Speaking of emphasis on football!

Perhaps Arkansas is justified in putting all its eggs into one basket since it has prospects of going all the way with that one basket. Southwest Conference coaches shudder at the thought of traveling into the Ozarks to play the Razorbacks next fall.

Southern Methodist and Texas Christian will be the championship favorites because of squads that bulge with experience and outstanding stars. But Texas, which is going to have its finest sophomore crop in 20 years to go with a flock of veterans, will be rated highly.

Rice looks powerful, Texas A&M should be greatly improved and Baylor, despite the loss of some of its greatest players, appears much stronger. Don't feel too sorry for Baylor, last place finisher two seasons in a row. There are 17 lettermen and some truly great sophomores.

And then what of Arkansas? This outfit may be the one that edges in with the pennant. Coach Frank Broyles, who had the best team in the conference over the last four weeks of the 1958 campaign, returns 18 lettermen, including Jim Mooty, Billy Kyser and others of top rank, and in addition gets Arkansas' greatest freshman team. The Shoots last fall were better than the varsity. Those who saw them said they were indeed the most.

So, the conference should be 25 per cent stronger as a whole and if so should be rated the best in the nation. Last fall, when football was acknowledged to be down in the league, the conference made an excellent showing in inter-sectional play.

It never had a stronger inter-sectional schedule, however, than the one coming up next season. Louisiana State, Oklahoma, Florida, Clemson, Michigan State, Oklahoma State, Mississippi, Georgia Tech, Navy, Pitt, Maryland, Nebraska, Oregon State, Southern California, California, Duke, Missouri and just about everybody of any note are on the schedule. Eight conferences will be played.

Just to show how many good football players are coming up consider the fact that six All-Conference men will return. They are Don Meredith of Southern Methodist; Don Floyd, Jack Spikes and Marvin Lasater of Texas Christian; Mooty of Arkansas and Charley Milstead of Texas A&M. The league never before had so many all-stars back.

Texas Christian and Southern Methodist have so many lettermen the coaches will be hard put to find places for them.

It looks like a year to compare with the glamorous late thirties when the conference produced three national champions in five seasons.

Aggie Tankers Finish Third In SWC Swimming Competition

It was a battle of records and points in Austin Saturday as SMU emerged as the Southwest Conference swimming champion. In all, eleven new records went into the books during the three-day meet.

Texas, crowding the Mustangs at the end of Friday's action, was left far behind as the SMU tankers shattered five records Saturday. The Ponies racked up 173 points to 144 for Texas, 44 for A&M, 16 for Texas Tech, and 15 for Rice.

Individual standouts in the meet were Doug Duwe, a Texas sophomore, and Jody Grant of SMU. Each added 19 points to their team's totals to capture individual point making honors. A&M's brightest spot in the meet was a second place effort by John Harrington in the 220-yard backstroke. Orlando Cossani, Dieter, Ufer and Harrington took third places in the 200-yard breaststroke, 100-yard breaststroke, and 100-yard backstroke, respectively. A&M also managed a pair of third place team efforts.

According to swimming coach Art Adamson, most of the winning times recorded would have placed at the national meet. And some were even better than existing national meet records.

This meet ends the swimming competition for the A&M tankers this year.
