Banquet Honors CHS Grid Team

Members of the 1958 A&M Consolidated High School football team, their guests and coaches were honored with a banquet by College Station Businessmen last night in the Fellowship Hall of the A&M Presbyterian Church.

The Consolidated Tigers were Champions of Dist. 21-AA in 1958. Master of ceremonies for the occasion was M. L. (Red) Cashion, College Station insurance man.

Special guests for the occasion were college athletic officials and four Aggie football players.

After a meal of barbecued chicken, the group was entertained by Bob Huffaker and Skip Conner who presented novelty acts. Speakers for the occasion were Jack Pardee, all-American full-back during the 1956 football season and Charlie Milstead, all-SWC back last season.

Milstead spoke on the similarities between high school and college football. He told the group that both college and high school players should have the characteristics of desire, courage and discipline, all being necessary not only on the football playing field, but in life as well.

Pardee told the audience that

Ike, Macmillan End Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan ended their three-day strategy conference Monday by agreeing it was the best they ever had.

The two old friends reviewed their decision to offer the Soviet Union's Premier Nikita Khrushchev a summertime summit meeting during a farewell 30-minute White House talk.

As he prepared to fly back to London Tuesday, Macmillan was reported advocating a series of informal summit conferences with Khrushchev as the surest way to ease tensions inflaming East-West relations.

The British leader was understood to be opposed to Geneva as a site. He favored a more secluded spot to try to avoid the glare of worldwide publicity.

Referring to his talks with Eisenhower, Macmillan said as he left the White House:

"It was the best conference we ever had in the most enjoyable surrounding."

Presidential press secretary James Hagerty said Eisenhower shared Macmillan's view equally. Hagerty said Eisenhower enjoyed informal-intimate talks of the kind he had with Macmillan, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and half a dozen other top British aides.

Annual Field Trip Scheduled by Ags

Twelve students and faculty members from A&M are expected to attend the annual field trip of the Texas Herpetological Society, a group of amateurs and professionals interested in the study of reptiles and amphibians, this weekend.

Site of the meet will be the 65,000-acre area of Devils River, located 70 miles northwest of Del Rio. Headquarters will be located on the Fawcett family ranch where the group will live in tents.

Saturday at 5 p.m. the society will have its annual dinner and business meeting, after which they will hunt specimens. The following morning there will be an exhibit and awards will be given to the top two collectors.

Richard Bauldout, assistant professor in the Department of Wildlife Management, is president of the society which is composed of 90 members.

Messhalls to Become Place to Eat Only

Hill Will Head 11-Man Team For Inspection

Col. Robert J. Hill Jr. will head an 11-man Army inspection team for the annual formal and general inspection of the Corps of Cadets April 23-25.

Hill is a member of the staff and faculty of the U. S. Army Artillery and Missile Center, Fort Sill, Okla. He has been in the Army since June, 1939, following his graduation from the U. S. Military Academy. He completed the Command and General Staff College in 1950, the Armed Forces Staff College in 1954 and the Army War College in 1956.

During World War II, Col. Hill served in the European Theatre of Operations as commanding officer of the 180th Field Artillery Battalion of the 26th Infantry Division. He was awarded the Silver Star, the Bronze Star and the Legion of Merit.

The team is expected to arrive at 3 p.m. April 22. Members to comprise the inspection team will chiefly be several officers from Fourth Army Headquarters, Fort Sam Houston.

Those expected to arrive with the team are Col. Hill, Lt. Col. John C. Allan, GS (Armor); Maj. George H. Worf, Artillery, regular team member; Lt. Col. Walter C. Henderson, Engineer Section; Maj. Tyrrell, Transportation Section; Lt. Col. Harold M. Kennedy, GS (Infantry), Combat Arms; and Capt. Arthur J. White, Army Aviation Section.

Not Training Area, Davis Tells CO's

By JOE BUSER
Battalion Editor

Corps commanders were told Saturday by Col. Joe E. Davis that "effective Tuesday the messhalls will be used for what they were designed—eating."

Putting the finishing touches to a month-long campaign against "tension" in the Corps dining areas, the commandant outlined the practices which would be authorized in the future.

"Freshmen will continue to give meal service—they do it at home; they may wear napkins in their collar if the men want it and they will continue to sit erect. No one will assume the exaggerated position on the front of the chair, however," Col. Davis said.

Consolidated Gives Play Tonight at 8

"January Thought", a three-act comedy by William Ross, will be presented tonight at 8 in the school auditorium by the A&M Consolidated junior class.

CS Woman Wins Award in Contest

Mrs. I. Walker Rupel, 305 College View Street, Bryan, is the recipient of a pair of boots from the Madisonville Sidewalk Cattlemen's Assn. for suggesting a topic for their letter writing contest.

Mrs. Rupel was presented the boots at the College Station Lions Club meeting Monday as the local Lions played host to a delegation from the cattlemen's association. The group made a special trip to College Station to present the award.

Mrs. Rupel's entry in the contest, which is limited to Alaskans only, was a suggestion that Alaskans write a letter on "Why I Am Living in Alaska."

The inhabitants of the biggest state in the Union who writes the best letter on this topic will be flown to Texas as a honor guest of the Sidewalk Cattlemen at their barbecue and rodeo the first Friday and Saturday in June, according to Bill Andrews, president of the Madisonville Sidewalk Cattlemen's Assn.

"We're just going to let big Alaska have her say—then, when the winner gets to Texas, we'll be set to show why we like living in the second largest state," Andrews said. "And this isn't to say that Alaska isn't top-shelf, itself. We just want to show an Alaskan Texas."

Mrs. Rupel, who has been to Alaska, said, "Now that I have lived in Texas since August, 1957, experiencing the wonderful friendliness here, I should love to have the opportunity to greet the Alaskan who wins and tell him (or her) about Texas."

Mrs. Rupel will have that opportunity as she, too, will be an honor guest at the Madisonville celebration June 5 and 6. She moved to Texas from Illinois.

Receives Boots

Mrs. I. Walker Rupel of Bryan happily receives a pair of boots from Bill Andrews, president of the Madisonville Sidewalk Cattlemen's Assn. Mrs. Rupel became the recipient of the boots for suggesting a topic for the association's letter writing contest.

City Council Plans to Start Street Work

Plans for the first ordinance, which authorizes the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications on assessment of city street construction, were formulated in the City Council meeting last night.

City Attorney C. E. Dillion told Council members the ordinance would be completed shortly and could be officially issued in the next council meeting. Dillion also said from 60 to 90 days will be required to complete all legal work before actual construction can begin. This construction will begin at the intersection of Foster and Walton, continue to Kyle street and then down to Highway 6.

Also the Council voted to refer the second installment of Woodson Village to the city planning group through City Engineer Fred Benson.

The Council then adopted Ordinance No. 279 to limit parking to six hours on both sides of Boyett St. between Church Ave. and Farm to Market Highway 60.

Mayor Ernest Langford presented a sketch plan for additional office space in City Hall for Council meetings. The plan is for an office to seat 60 people.

Also on the agenda, the Council authorized the expenditure of $2,950 for the purchase of a ditching machine.

Argue Talks Tonite In All-Faith Chapel

Rev. James Argue, pastor of the College Station First Methodist Church, will present a talk in the All-Faith Chapel at the Holy Week Vesper Service tonight from 7:15-7:45 p.m.

Rev. Argue will speak on the subject "Is It Nothing to You . . . All You That Pass."

J. Gordon Gay, co-ordinator of religious life, urged all students to spend a half-hour in worship and self examination so that they may be spiritually prepared for the coming Easter.
