Army's Jet-Powered "Troquois"
...over 100 miles per hour in level flight

"An Aerial Hotrod"
Jet Whirlybird Tour
Includes Stop at A&M

A&M will be one of three stops in Texas of the nationwide tour. The other stops are in Colorado, Kansas and North Carolina. The tour will conclude at approximately 9:30 p.m. The tour is sponsored by the Army helicopter and aviation training program.

On Display
At the installation, visitors will be able to see the AH-1B Cobra, a two-seat, single-engine attack helicopter. The Cobra is a highly maneuverable and powerful combat aircraft. Visitors will also be able to see the UH-1D Huey, a multi-purpose helicopter used by the Army for a variety of missions.

The tour will stop at A&M to allow students to view the helicopters in person. The tour will also provide an opportunity for students to learn about the history and capabilities of these aircraft.

The tour is open to the public and is free of charge. Visitors are encouraged to dress appropriately for the weather and to bring comfortable shoes for walking.

The tour will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 9 p.m. Visitors are encouraged to plan their visit accordingly.

The Army is committed to promoting public awareness of its aviation capabilities and to providing opportunities for citizens to learn more about these important assets.

The next stop on the tour will be in Colorado, followed by Kansas and North Carolina. The tour will continue on to other states and will conclude with a final stop in Washington, D.C.

For more information about the tour, please contact the Army Aviation Training Program at 254-956-8000.