More Praise

A telegram was received Friday night addressed to the editor of The Battalion which commended those connected with last Thursday's Student Senate-College Station Lions Club Blood Drive.

The telegram reads: "John H. Johnson, Editor The Battalion, A&M College College Station, Texas

Thanks to the fine support of you, The Battalion and A&M student body, and the wonderful work of Professor Dave Fitch and the College Station Lions Club, the A&M Blood Drive for our children's blood pool was a real success.

Dr. Ellen Loeb, M.D., Chairman Children's Research Blood Pool Wadley Research Center Dallas"

The telegram not only commends the men of Aggie-land and members of the College Station Lions Club but also clears up a misconception in some people's minds—the blood will not be sold.

This telegram was the second commendation students of Texas A&M have received this year. The other commendation was a letter of appreciation for the help the men of Aggie-land gave in loading foamite used in fighting the Houston Ship Channel fire last fall.

A Few Lines...

Tom Puddy, 18-year staff member of Texas A&M and manager of Guion Hall, is reported steadily improving at the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital in Saranac Lake, N. Y.

However, Puddy still faces several more months of hospitalization before he will be completely recovered. His physicians report that Puddy will not have to undergo surgery as they first thought.

A familiar figure on the campus, Puddy has done much in his long years of service to Texas A&M to enlighten the everyday life of the Men of Aggie-land—through both his operation of Guion Hall and his personal contact with students and faculty and staff members.

Now, Puddy could use some encouragement and correspondence with people connected with Texas A&M—both his old friends and possible new ones. It would mean a lot in keeping up the moral of Puddy and would not take much time to drop him a line and let him know what's going on here and that we miss him.

For those interested in writing Puddy, his address is Room 261, Will Rogers Memorial Hospital, Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Just a few lines would do a lot of good...

CS Tops State

A report released last week by the United Fund Campaign headquarters for Texas in Dallas revealed that College Station residents led the state for their population class in per capita donations to their United Chest donations last fall.

College Station citizens donated $16,600 to the United Chest—a per capita average of $3.32 which was more than a dollar over the average for other Texas cities of under $2,000.

The $16,600 exceeded the original goal of $13,150 originally set by the leaders of the College Station drive.

Had the men of Aggie-land followed the example of the citizens of College Station, the Campus Chest held on the campus last fall might have come closer to meeting its goal.

Regardless, the report was another feather in the cap of the people who led the College Station drive and to all those who worked and contributed to the drive.

TEXAS TECH Texas Tech students are being apprehended constantly on trips from numerous wet counties in the general vicinity of Lubbock with incriminating cargoes of spirits.

The situation has gotten so serious that the following comment was made by a law officer in Castro County, "I don't know what we are going to do about the situation. It looks as though we might have to close that school down for a few weeks or something."

"Why the traffic through here by Tech students alone is enough to keep our whole force busy."

SMU The SMU Campus describes the typical woman: He (over the telephone): Did you have a good time last night? She: Complete silence. He: I said, did you have a good time last night? She: Silence.

He: Are you going to answer me? I asked you if you had a good time last night. She: Well, I shook my head, silly.

TEXAS A story out of tea-sip land tells how a coed celebrated under Memorial Stadium, with approval of the University police. It seems that on a 10 p.m. "coffee date" with a boyfriend, she was surprised as car lights suddenly blinded them. Her companion had arranged for a surprise birthday party for her, refreshments and all.

LEFTOVER OLIVES Some green olives left over from that party? Cut the olive meat from the pits, chop fine and add to creamstyle cottage cheese; serve with salad greens, sliced tomatoes and cucumbers for lunch.

While munching the cake, the group of friends noticed a familiar black car pull up. "And what do you think you are doing here?" a voice queried. "Having a birthday party."

With this the officers joined the revelers and a good time was had by all. All that is, but the coed—she was in the Health Center the next day with the flu.

One TU student driver, called to the Dean of Men's office, was told he had an excessive number of parking violations and would have to go before a panel of deans and assistant deans to determine the penalty.

The panel examined and cross-examined only to find the student did not seem to place much importance on parking meter violations. The student was told by the panelists that his attitude was, in general, bad and that the penalty for infraction of such rules ranged from payment of the fine to suspension. Then the student was excused.

Later the verdict of the panel was handed out: Disciplinary probation—on condition he see a psychiatrist.

Well, it looks like someone has finally caught on as to how to best handle Tea-sips. It's about time, isn't it?

"AN EMBARRASSMENT OF RICHES"

Twinkly, lovable old Dr. Wagstaff Sigafoos, head of chemistry at the Upper Rhode Island College of Science and Palmistry, cares naught for glory and wealth. All he cares about is to work in his laboratory, to play Mozart quartets with a few cronies, to smoke a good Marlboro, and to throw sticks for his faithful dog Trey to fetch.

So when, after years of patient research, Dr. Sigafoos discovered Reverso, a shaving cream which causes whiskers to grow inward instead of outward, thus enabling a man to bite off his beard instead of shaving it, it never even crossed his mind that he had come upon a key to fame and riches; he simply assigned all his royalties from Reverso to the college and went on with his quiet life of working in the laboratory, playing Mozart quartets, smoking good Marlboros and throwing sticks for his faithful dog Trey. (Trey, incidentally, had died some years earlier but habit is a strong thing and Dr. Sigafoos to this day continues to throw sticks.)

As everyone knows, Reverso turned out to be a madly successful shaving cream. Royalties in the first month amounted to $290,000, which came in mighty handy, believe you me, because the college had long been postponing some urgently needed repairs—a lightning rod for the men's dormitory, new hoops for the basketball court, leather patches for the chess team's elbows and a penwiper for the Director of Admissions.

Royalties in the first month amounted to $290,000.

In the second month royalties amounted to an even million dollars and the college bought Marlboro cigarettes for all students and faculty members. It is interesting that the college chose Marlboro cigarettes though they could well have afforded more expensive brands. The reason is simply this: you can pay more for a cigarette but you can't get a better flavor, a better smoke. If you think flavor went out when filters came in, try a Marlboro. The filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste. You, too, can smoke like a millionaire at a cost which does no violence to the slimmest of budgets. Marlboros come in soft pack or flip-top box and can be found at any tobacco counter. Millionaires can be found on yachts.

But I digress. We were speaking of the royalties from Reverso which continue to accrue at an astonishing rate—now in excess of one million dollars per week. The college is doing all it can to spend the money; the student-faculty ratio which used to be thirty students to one teacher is now thirty teachers to one student; the Gulf Stream has been purchased for the Department of Marine Biology; the Dean of Women has been gold-plated.

But money does not buy happiness, especially in the college world. Poverty and ivy—that is the academic life—not power and pelf. The Upper Rhode Island College of Science and Palmistry is frankly embarrassed by all this wealth, but I am pleased to report that the trustees are not taking their calamity lying down. Last week they earmarked all royalties for a crash research program headed by Dr. Wagstaff Sigafoos to develop a whisker which is resistant to Reverso. Let us all join in wishing the old gentleman success.

The sponsors of this column can't offer you money but they can offer you fine smoking flavor—with or without filter. If you favor filters try a Marlboro. If non-filters are your pleasure pick a Philip Morris.
