82 Approved For Elections By Commission

Eighty-two students have been approved by the Election Commission for class elections to be held March 18. These students will complete for 19 positions in next year's senior, junior and sophomore classes.

Candidates for Yell Leader, Memorial Student Center Council representative and Student Entertainment Manager must still be approved by their respective committees but have been approved by the commission.

Senior Class candidates are:
President: Jack R. Fickessen, Charles F. Wetherbee, Narciso Cano, Leonard D. Holder and Terry R. Norman.

Vice President: Thomas R. Hargrove, Sam S. Henry, Paul R. Studley, Marion H. Tindall, Donald R. VonDolen, and James W. Howard.

Secretary-Treasurer: Michael O. Beck, R. Ervin Jenkins, Charles T. McGinnis III, Donald R. Hozek, William M. Peoples and Louis Sabayrac.

Social Secretary: Michael L. Evans and Harris Pappas.

Historian: John D. Gaden Jr.,

David E. Graham and Charles A. Mella.

Yell Leader: Tifton Simmons Jr., David J. Rainey, Van K. Veselka, Ralph W. Mistrot Jr., Rodney L. Dockery and Joseph K. Bush.

MSC Council Representative: Roy L. May, Michael O. Beck and Russel Stein.

Student Entertainment Manager: Robert W. Owen, Michael Nabors and Ralph W. Mistrot.

Junior Class candidates are:
President: Donald J. Matocha, John R. Haley, Edward L. Mooreau, Dwight Recht, William W. Gordon and James B. Heath.

Vice President: Jack E. Nelson, Philip L. Newton, Neal C. Ward, Joe D. Woodard, Cyrus R. Heaton, Gary W. Foster and Gordon W. Bentzen.

Secretary-Treasurer: Robert J. Myers, Fred J. Wright, M. Leroy Shafer and Harold C. Shade.

Social Secretary: Rex O. Grey and Mark C. Berry.

Yell Leader: Thomas C. Stone, Eugene L. Riser, Rayford R. Carey, John N. Holladay, Layne H. Connevey and Weldon D. Bailey.

MSC Council Representative: William R. Hindman.

President: Carl Feducia, Jack Ronnie Coleman, Milton E. Lindsay, Benny G. Mays, Alfred M. Williams and Jack E. Ogden.

Vice President: Stephen E. Mencer, Gregory A. Peyrefitte, Neal W. Adams, John T. Corcoran and Maurice V. Main.

Secretary-Treasurer: Wayne J. Baird, Henry G. Cisneros, Charles W. Dawson and Robert J. Earhart.

Social Secretary: Lee Horton, William R. McLeroy, Don R. Ray and John Daly.

MSC Council Representative: Clyde R. Westbrook, Donald L. Allen and John D. McLeroy.

Following are voting rules to be followed in the class elections:
1. Only students in classes of '66, '67 and '68 may vote in their respective elections. No class of '65 seniors or graduate students may vote in the class elections.

2. Academic classification will determine which class a student votes with, but a student classified in a higher class because of advance work can vote with his original class upon request.

3. All voters must have voter's registration cards and new ID cards to vote.

4. Cards will still be available on election day.

700 High School Visitors Expected For Career Day

Displays, Tours Slated Saturday

More than 700 high school students are expected to tour A&M facilities Saturday during High School Career Day.

Approximately 60 academic departments will show their field of study through displays on the floor of G. Rollie White Coliseum. While students register they will have a chance to browse through these exhibits and see the whole university in a nutshell.

After viewing the fair and registering, the high school students will proceed to Guion Hall where they will be welcomed by President Earl Rudder. Groups will then be arranged according to the student's academic field of interest and guides will be introduced for the afternoon tour.

The University Intercouncil, sponsors for the day, hopes for an increased attendance this year.

William Mason, chairman of the council, said that the trouble with career day attendance in the past has been a lack of publicity. This year over 2,000 persons have been contacted concerning the event.

Letters have been sent to every high school in Texas, some Mother's Clubs have bought full page ads in hometown newspapers, Former Student Associations have invited several young men and the College of Veterinary Medicine has even asked veterinarians to suggest prospective students.

"We extended personal invitation to every interested high school student to attend our expanded Career Day activities this year," said Austin Kerley, director of the A&M Counseling and Testing Center and coordinator of the event.

"The 'Academic Fair' should give visitors an overall view of the facilities at A&M."

Stress this year will be on academic possibilities at A&M.

Students will visit individual departments in small groups Saturday afternoon, and they will be able to ask questions about their special fields of interest. Faculty members will be on hand.

"A&M students play a big part in the Career Day activities. Many high school students are invited by Aggies and they can help even more by providing some of these students a place to stay," Mason added.

Actress Grimes Claims 2 Attacks By White Racists

NEW YORK (AP) — Her face cut and bruised and her hand slashed, musical comedy star Tammy Grimes said today she was attacked twice in the past four days. She blamed the attacks on white racists.

Police said she had told them of an injury but quoted her as telling them she didn't know how she was hurt.

"They apparently objected to my associating with Negro entertainers," Miss Grimes said.

She said the attacks took place in the Manhattan midtown area Sunday and Tuesday nights and that five stitches were required to close a wound on her left hand.

The attacks, she said, came after publication of a story that Sammy Davis, Negro entertainer, was staging a night club act for her and she also was seen leaving a bowling alley with him last week.

Miss Grimes, who is white, talked with a report for the New York Post after the paper received word of the incidents from its columnist, Earl Wilson.

Aggies Watch Artist Work
Juan R. Avila sketches young lady at Fountain Room entrance in Memorial Student Center. The Austin artist has sold paintings for prices ranging up to $600. He has been visiting A&M annually for 15 years.

Improvements For Campus Studied By Civilian Council

Campus improvements occupied most of the time at the Civilian Students Council Thursday night.

Terry Norman reported that efforts were being made to place a Post Office receptacle in or around the Academic Building. Norman said that there was presently a drop for mail in the building but it did not have any signs indicating that mail was picked up regularly, or that the mail drop was for students.

Norman said the box is for both students and faculty, but few students know it is available.

Larry Claypool reported that there was a possibility that three lights would be installed in front of the Data Processing Building by the Building and Utilities. It was brought before the council at an earlier meeting that the steps to the center were dangerous at night without lights.

Another report was the lack of parking space near the newly constructed and renovated dorms. The students were urged to park in the Law Parking Lot from the report to the council.

Other business included the selection of entertainment for the Civilian Weekend bar-b-que. The council approved contacting the "Four Coachmen" to play during the supper.

The council was also urged to vote and to apply for positions in the general election.

President Paul Oliver said that the proposed reorganization of the CSC and the Dormitory Presidents Council had gone through Bennie Zinn, director of Student Affairs, and was now in Dean of Students James Hannigan's office. Oliver said Hannigan reported that the proposal needed final approval before action could be taken.

Marriage Forum To Host Bowman Tuesday Night

Dr. Henry Bowman of the University of Texas will speak at the second Marriage Forum series at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Bowman's talk will cover such topics as the significance of emotional problems that develop early in marriage, common conflicts, tensions and how to make adjustments, wise spending and budgets, immaturity, what holds marriage together, what is needed to get the husband through school and the boom in high school and college marriages.

Bowman is a recognized authority on marriage and family life.

He has served as president of the National Council on Family Relations, an organization made up of teachers, physicians, clergymen, attorneys, social workers and psychologists.

3 Systems Bill Introduced In Senate

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill carrying out part of Gov. John Connally's plan to group tax-supported colleges and universities into three new systems was introduced in the Senate Thursday.

Sen. Galloway Calhoun of Tyler introduced the measure which would expand the University of Texas and the A&M University systems along lines recommended by Connally. The third branch of Connally's plan—a state senior college system—is covered by a bill introduced earlier in the session by Rep. Willis Whitley of Houston.

Presidents of the 20 state-supported colleges and universities adopted a resolution recently voicing opposition to the regrouping.

In the Texas State University System would be A&M, Texas Tech, Prairie View A&M, Tarleton State, Lamar Tech, Texas A&I and a new technical college at San Antonio.

Candid Comments On Current Crises

Students Say Cadet Court Could Understand Cases Better

Question: Would you favor that the Cadet Court review the expulsion of students from the Corps?

RONNIE CLARK JR.
Sophomore, Gainesville
Yes. The Cadet Court is of, by and for the Corps of Cadets. The Corps is supposed to be run by Cadets, mostly juniors and seniors. I think that it is time we start letting institutions such as the Cadet Court, not only review such matters as expulsions, but handle them completely. I would like to see such a move.

PETE DIAZ
Sophomore, Hidalgo
Yes. I believe that the Cadet Court should review Cadet expulsions from the Corps because they are better informed of the incidents that happen in the Corps. They are not one-sided, but rather they have an open mind on the matter at hand. I believe that students should be judged by other students, and not by others.

AUBREY K. LANGE
Senior, Mason
Yes. This would give the students—Cadet Court—the responsibility to consider the proper punishment for the misconduct. The ax would then be on the students in the Court instead of the Trigrams. The Cadet Court is a good institution for reprimand because the students can consider proper punishment for Corps misconduct.

RUDY BLAKELY JR.
Freshman, Beeville
Yes. I definitely think so because the members of the Cadet Court are in a better position to understand the situation since they themselves are in the Corps of Cadet. Most students that are expelled usually want to have their side of the story heard. By having the Cadet Court review the case, the students' side could be heard.

JIM O'ROURKE
Freshman, New Orleans, La.
Yes. In certain cases I feel the Cadet Court should have the right to review. I believe that the Court which is made up of students could hand down a decision that would be closer to the offense and in some cases a lot fairer than the one handed down by an outsider. Expulsion from the Corps is serious, especially for upper classmen.

W. R. (RUSTY) RUSSELL
Sophomore, El Paso
I would be in favor of this because I think that every Cadet that is expelled should have a chance to have his expulsion reviewed. This school was established to build men and leaders. The Court was set up for justice, but this justice should be waived if necessary. Some of the expulsions formulated A&M and its status for the building of men.

JOE SPEARS
Sophomore, Fort Worth
Yes. I feel that the Cadet Court should review expulsions. It seems to me that these students don't have a fair chance to present their side of the story and I feel some sort of review should be held to provide the students with such a chance. This is only fair after a student has put in so much work and has gone through the hell of Corps life.
