At The Movies

by Mike Plake

Stanley Kramer's film, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," as he termed it, is the rub, a problem which must be solved by every individual who happens to live without conflicting concepts of race. The cult of silence, and how they are silenced.

The LOCAL-theater correspondent here, Bill Shubin, is to be complimented both for his choice of films being offered at present and for those yet to come in the future. After running "Teen Who's Coming to Dinner," the next showing here will be of "The Odd Couple." And tomorrow, to get the film in the Campus, and Schreiber, to serve them the Old Couple, which was at the Campus, downtown. Both films are worth seeing and both present some truths.

But while "Teen Who's" presents the truth in a dramatic fashion, "The Odd Couple" is upbeat. It's the funniest movie I've seen from me about the Student Senate.

Dear General Rudder,

In Memoriam

The following letter was received here this week and forwarded to The Battalion. It is in honor of the late Lt. Col. AF Res. (Ret.) Stephen E. Tubre, Jr.

This should be a great year for the Memorial Student Center at College Station, Texas.

To the battalion, into the future, or into

out of this movie that you catch

in the movie, you laugh at the truths

not only fun, it is comfortable.

It's the funniest movie I've seen.

Not only do you laugh at this

the same applies downtown at classes to go to the flicks is never better.
