

Summertime Means Swimming, Women At Aggieland

The Battalion

VOLUME 64 Number 128 ¹²⁹

COLLEGE STATION, TEXAS WEDNESDAY, JULY 30, 1969

Telephone 845-2226

Journalism Shop Attracts 370 Here

Selection of Miss Workshopper tonight highlights social activities for the High School Publications Workshop sponsored this week by Texas A&M's Journalism Department.

Miss Workshopper will be chosen from 25 contestants at a dance beginning at 8 p. m. in the Memorial Student Center ballroom.

Registration for the six-day session totaled 370 students from 69 cities, announced Mrs. C. J. Leabo, workshop director. She said enrollment this year represents an increase of approximately 70 percent over participation last year.

Workshop courses include beginning and advanced classes in yearbook planning, newspaper production and photography. Approximately 200 of the students are enrolled in yearbook classes, 100 in newspaper sessions and 60 in photography.

Following Sunday registration, the students hit the ground running with a full agenda of classroom, laboratory and field work. Numerous interviews, surveys and pictures have been taken by the junior journalists across the campus.

Monday night, the students were treated to a "Meet the Professionals" program which included discussions by representatives from Houston and local news media, as well as from The University.

Sports writing enthusiasts Tuesday night were given the opportunity to interview Gene Stallings, A&M's head football coach and athletic director.

The workshop continues through Friday morning, with an awards ceremony scheduled from 9:30 to 11 in the MSC ballroom.

The workshop banquet will be held Thursday night, also in the MSC ballroom, beginning at 8 p. m.

Judges for tonight's Miss Workshopper contest are Ronnie Peret, A&M's All-Southwest Conference basketball star last year, and Reggie Majors and Duke Butler, both members of A&M's SWC champion golf team.

Master of ceremonies for the program will be Robert L. Boone, director of A&M's Singing Cadets.

Big Entertainment In Line For A&M

The hit Broadway show "Mame," Mantovani, The Cowbells and the Houston and Dallas Symphony Orchestras are among the 1969-70 presentations scheduled by Texas A&M's Town Hall Series and the Rotary Community Series.

Season tickets for both series are now available at the Student Program Office in A&M's Memorial Student Center, announced Rex Stewart, chairman of the university's Town Hall Committee.

The Town Hall Series, including the Artist Showcase featuring classical entertainment, offers nine performances this year. Town Hall ticket holders also will be admitted free to the final Rotary Series presentation.

Four productions are included in the 1969-70 Rotary Series, with season ticket holders also admitted free to a Town Hall presentation.

The entertainment season opens Sept. 18 with the Rotary Series sponsoring the Houston Symphony Orchestra.

Also included in the Rotary Series are "Mame," Dec. 17; "La Traviata," performed by the Goldovsky Grand Opera Theater, Feb. 23; and pianist Misha Dichter, March 17.

Town Hall begins its season Oct. 24 with The Cowbells, a family group which sings and plays folk music, folk rock and popular standards.

Other Town Hall presentations are Mantovani, Nov. 5; Ray Price, "country and western music" star, Nov. 7; and The First Edition, singing group specializing in rock and folk ballads, March 6. Arrangements are pending for the final Town Hall production, tentatively scheduled April 25, in conjunction with Civilian Student Weekend.

Artist Showcase presentations are pianist Stephen Bishop, Oct. 30; Spanish guitarist Sabicas, Feb. 2; the Guarneri String Quartet, March 5; and the Dallas Symphony, April 23.

Town Hall also has lined up three "special attractions," for which extra tickets will be required. Included are singer Johnny Rivers, Nov. 26; the Harlem Globetrotters, Feb. 3; and the Preservation Hall Jazz Band, May 9.

Rotary Series ticket holders will be admitted free to the Mantovani performance and Town Hall ticket holders to the Misha Dichter concert.

Tickets for either series may be obtained in person or via mail from the Student Program Office in the MSC, noted Stewart, senior finance major from San Antonio.

Town Hall season tickets are $12 each for patrons, $10 for A&M faculty-staff members and $7 for student wives or dates.

Students possessing university activity and identification cards will be admitted free to regular Town Hall performances, with reserved seats available for $3 for the season. Students also will be admitted free to the Dichter concert.

Town Hall season ticket holders and students with activity and identification cards will be admitted without charge to the four Artist Showcase programs. Individual tickets will be $2 for adults and $1 for other students.

Rotary Series season tickets are $16.50 each.

Individual tickets will be sold, if available, for Town Hall presentations, Stewart pointed out, but not for the Rotary Series.

He noted, however, 200 Rotary Series tickets for each performance are being retained for A&M students and their wives or dates. The tickets will be $2 each.

SAY 'JEEZ'

A delegate to the Journalism Workshop practices his technique on a candid cooperator. The workshop, for students involved in high school publications, started Sunday and will last a week. (Photo by Monty Stanley)

College President's Group Endorses Four Revisions

The Council of Presidents of State-Supported Colleges and Universities has endorsed the passage of four of the nine proposed constitutional amendments to be voted upon by Texans in a special election August 5, A&M President Earl Rudder reported.

The council voted in an Austin meeting this week to urge approval of Amendments 2, 3, 6 and 8.

The amendments either are directly related to higher education or are of such general importance to the state to require the council's consideration, Council President James C. Jernigan said. He is president of Texas A&I University at Kingsville.

"The council is not saying that the other amendments are not valid but the group as a whole desired to support the four amendments," Jernigan pointed out.

The amendments "thought by the council to be vitally essential

Firemen Put Out Final A&M Blaze

Municipal firemen from 421 towns and 23 states put out their final Texas Firemen's Training School blaze Friday and headed for home.

Chief Instructor Henry D. Smith termed the 40th annual Texas A&M school "a real success."

No major injuries were reported.

"We had perfect weather and a real fine school," Smith commented.

A&M will host the second of the three one-week schools starting again Sunday when Smith expects 520 to register at the Ramada Inn for the industrial fire-fighting session.

Included in the industrial school will be instructors and students from an estimated 30 countries outside the United States.

"The industrial school is for people engaged in industrial fire protection," Smith noted. Industries from different nations send several key men to the one-week school, which is the largest industrial training school in the world.

to the future development of the full potential of human and natural resources" are:

Amendment No. 2—providing for a water plan for Texas.

Amendment No. 3—providing for a procedure for establishing higher salaries for the Lieutenant Governor, Speaker of the House, and members of the Texas Legislature.

Amendment No. 6—removing constitutional interest rate limitations subject to limits imposed by the legislature for bonds pursuant to constitutional authority.

Amendment No. 8—authorizing the legislature to provide for additional loans to students at institutions of higher education under Texas Opportunity Plan.

Eng. Center Site Being Prepared

Site preparation for the $7.5 million engineering center at Texas A&M continues this week.

Charles Brunk, assistant manager of physical plants, said actual construction should start within a few days. Completion of the engineering center is scheduled for the summer of 1971.

The center will house undergraduate and graduate instruction, plus engineering research.

A&M received federal funding for the complex, to be located facing the Cyclotron Institute.

The building will consist of 317,575 gross square feet with a basement and four floors.

A&M's board of directors awarded a $7,546,000 contract for the project to the W. S. Bellows Construction Corp. of Houston in June.

Rep. Will Present House Resolution

State Rep. Ray Lemmon of Houston will present a formal copy of a House of Representatives concurrent resolution on oceanographic development to A&M President Earl Rudder here Friday.

The resolution, authored by Rep. Lemmon, notes the contributions Texas A&M is making to the state through oceanographic research and development.

Endorsed by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, the document officially represents the entire 61st Legislature.

Lemmon, who represents District 24 and is serving his first term in the Legislature, pointed out in the document that Texas A&M is the only institution of higher learning in the state offering a degree in oceanography.

The Houston solon introduced the resolution following a visit to Texas A&M and inspection of the university's various oceanographic and related facilities.

Texas A&M was selected last year by the National Science Foundation as one of six U. S. universities to receive major institutional support under the new Sea Grant Program designed to develop the nation's marine resources. Texas A&M's Sea Grant work complements the basic research conducted by the university's Oceanographic Department.

Gang Beats Up 2 Footballers

Two Texas A&M football players and another youth were beaten by 12 to 15 youths on a Galveston beach Thursday and thus far five boys have been charged.

Galveston police are investigating the incident which involved Allan Wayne Hanson, a junior tackle, and Jerry Minyard, a sophomore rover back. The other boy was identified as Steve Stewart, a former University of Texas football player.

The boys said that they were beaten with tire tools and a car jack while being held at gunpoint by a gang who jumped them after yelling obscenities in a passing car as Hanson and Minyard talked to a girl nearby.

The boys charged with aggravated assault and battery with a deadly weapon and simple assault were Jack Higgins, 19; David Huddleston, 21; and Bob Hodges, 22.

Others charged with two counts of simple assault were Don Hegman, 19 and James Rawlings, 19.

Hanson, 20, of Kemah, Tex., identified two of the suspects from his room in John Sealy Hospital in Houston, where he is in good condition after suffering lacerations over the left eye. His eye was swollen shut but he is expected to be released from the hospital this week.

Minyard, 20, a sophomore who played defensive end, rover, and split end, was reported in satisfactory condition in a Nederland hospital with a fractured left arm and abrasions on the forehead.

Stewart, of League City, was treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Bryan Building & Loan Association. Your Saving Center, since 1919. —Adv.

Dorsey Named Admission Head

Dr. Oscar L. Dorsey of Angelo State University in San Angelo has been named director of admissions at Texas A&M, announced A&M Academic Vice President Horace R. Byers.

Dr. Byers said Dorsey will head a new program emphasizing recruitment of more highly qualified students at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Dorsey has been a member of the ASU faculty since 1958 but served as assistant to A&M's liberal arts dean while studying for his Ph.D. degree here two years ago.

Prior to joining the ASU faculty, Dorsey taught science four years at Bronte High School.

University National Bank "On the side of Texas A&M." —Adv.