Weekend of movies provides intellectual satires, comedies

By BRAD ELLIS
Staff Writer

Ingmar Bergman exposes the infidelity, jealousy, adherence to the double standard, and repression typical of Victorian Europe in his timely sex comedy, "Smiles of a Summer Night."

The Bergman film is the first in a weekend of comedies that adorn the schedule of TAMU film committees this week.

Bergman's many characters pursue wildly amorous adventures with several people, all of them deluding themselves some kind of way, until a clever plan is designed for a party. The party drives everyone to their various drastic measure to find and hold their love.

Neat and easy to perceive structure leads the viewer through intellectually comic episodes uncommon to Bergman's usual dramatic style, needling and titillating with treacherously inconvenient slapstick pitfalls, seemingly calculated to embroil the victim in ridiculous and embarrassing jams.

Bergman's men are concerned with their dignity, and his women with fulfillment and suffering, all scheming to get their own way in an expose of sexist bias which complicates life for both groups.

Cute touches of regality outline this richly Victorian, comic farce, with a caricature of drama. "Smiles of a Summer Night" will be shown in the University Center Theater Thursday night at 7:30 p. m. and 10 p. m. for $1, by the Arts Film Series.

"What's Up Doc?" and "The Owl and the PussyCat" comprise a Barbra Streisand double feature Friday and Saturday nights at 8 p. m. and 9:45 p. m. The Aggie Cinema present these comedies in

Constitution faces education battles

AUSTIN (AP)—After two afternoons of heated argument, the Texas Constitutional Convention has approved an equal educational opportunity guarantee that one black delegate called "better than nothing."

Legislator-delegates return at 1:30 p.m. today to continue their work on the education articles of a proposed new state constitution.

Equal educational opportunity was the issue that kept the convention knotted up Monday and Tuesday afternoons and raised doubts that the delegates can finish their work by Convention President Price Daniel Jr.'s target date in early April.

Ten more sections of the education article — some of them highly controversial — lie ahead of the delegates this week and possibly next.

An 88-81 vote resolved the equality matter Tuesday afternoon, giving approval to an amendment by black Rep. Craig

Washington, D-Houston, and Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas.

The Washington-Mauzy amendment requires the legislature to provide "equitable support and maintenance of an efficient system of free public schools below the college level that will furnish each individual an equal educational opportunity."

No longer is there a requirement that educational quality depend on the sometimes meager wealth of an individual school district but on the resources of the entire state. That provision was recommended by the Education Committee but rejected by the delegates.

Delegates rejected, 93-80, a proposal by Rep. Ray Barnhart, R-Pasadena, to establish only "the goal of providing equal educational opportunity." Up to that point, Barnhart apparently had succeeded in keeping a guarantee of such opportunity out.

Barnhart contended that such commitment would result in perpetual lawsuits against the state because the term "equal educational opportunity" was subject to numerous interpretations.

At one point, Washington-minded the delegates that it was a two-thirds vote to send a constitution to the voters and, sated, "We'll be here till the freezes over" if Barnhart's proposal were approved.
