SENIOR RING ORDERING PROCEDURE FOR STUDENTS COMPLETING 92 HOURS AT THE END OF THE SPRING '79 SEMESTER

To be eligible to order the Texas A&M Senior Ring, an undergraduate student must have at least ninety-two (92) semester hours, with 30 hours at A&M and be in good standing with the university. To order at mid-semester using mid-semester grades to fulfill the above requirements, please note the following instructions:

1. Mid-semester orders will be taken only from March 20th until April 27, 1979.
2. Leave your name, major and I.D. number with the ring clerk, Heaton Building, prior to March 20th if possible, or at least one week in advance of ordering. This may not be done by phone.
3. Bring mid-semester grade reports along when ready to order to verify passing hours for the spring semester only.
4. Anyone having failed to leave their name in advance and fail to bring their mid-semester grade report along when ready to order will be asked to return later to allow time for records to be checked.
5. All rings must be paid for in full when the order is placed. Senior ring loans are available through Student Financial Aid in the YMCA building.
6. Students who do not place their order during this period may order after final grades are posted. There will be only a 1-2 week difference in delivery time for those students ordering after final grades are posted during May. (Whenever 92 hours have been completed and are on record, there is never a dead-line, except a monthly mailing date on which we send orders to the factory.)
7. The ring clerk is on duty from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, Monday through Friday. However in order for other duties to be carried out, no orders will be taken between 11:30 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. or between 4:00 - 5:00 p.m.
8. All rings ordered, regardless of whether on March 20th or April 27th, will be delivered on the same day which will be approximately July 18, 1979.

Growth, conservation compatible, study says

WASHINGTON — The President's Council on Environmental Quality said Tuesday the United States can maintain healthy economic growth and at the same time, cut annual increases in energy consumption to almost zero. The council's report, titled "The Good News About Energy," contradicted most traditional predictions of U.S. energy needs through the year 2000. The report said, "Revised and more realistic estimates now indicate that with a moderate effort to improve energy productivity, our energy consumption in the year 2000 need not exceed current use by more than about 25 percent, and that with a determined effort it need not increase by more than about 10 to 15 percent." Forecasts have generally called for doubling U.S. energy consumption by the century's end. The traditional view uses past trends in projecting a 3 to 4 percent growth in energy consumption each year to achieve a similar level of growth in the nation's economy.

But the council, citing a number of other recent studies to support its argument, said similar levels of economic growth can be obtained with increases in energy consumption as low as 0.5 percent a year. This can be done, the council said, if the nation makes a real effort to practice conservation. With a maximum conservation effort, the United States could consume 19 percent less energy in the year 2010 than it did in 1977, doubling the gross national product, the council said. The main changes in the study suggested by the study are improved insulation to cut losses by 50 percent and heating fuel requirements 10 percent, coupled with the use of heat pumps and more efficient lighting.

farmers and landowners in Gaines, Dawson, Yoakum, and Andrews counties in West Texas and participants from eastern Mexico. Attorney Willis E. Gresham Lamesa said the group's purpose is to combat "organized corporate interests that compete with farmers for use of land and water. "We are being threatened, our land and water are being threatened," said Norman Hicks, the group's temporary chairman. The two-hour meeting attracted cannot fight large oil companies individually, he said a united effort of farmers and landowners could have an impact. Hicks identified three areas of concern held by the fledgling organization: —Use of vast amounts of freshwater by oil companies in the region of oil that might otherwise be diverted for agricultural use. —Competition between land and oil producers for the use of surface areas; —Installation of production facilities by oil companies which prevent the use of some irrigated lands.

Texas landowners fight for fresh water

SEMINOLE — Some 100 area landowners, angry at oil companies for what they claim is contamination of underground fresh water supplies and disregard for farmland, met Monday night for the formal creation of the Southwest Soil and Water Protection Association Inc. The group, which had its genesis some three months ago when an organizational meeting was held and a steering committee was selected, presented articles of incorporation and by-laws and began soliciting memberships Monday.

Oil crisis talk slated by OPEC

United Press International ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has decided to hold a special meeting next month to discuss concerns that major Western oil companies have turned the Iranian crisis to their profit. Dr. Maneh Said Al Otaiba, the oil minister of the United Arab Emirates, announced Monday that the OPEC meeting would be held in Geneva March 26. The Emirates news agency WAM quoted Otaiba as saying the meeting would focus on the turmoil on world oil markets caused by the cutback in Iranian exports and "the actions of petroleum companies toward the underdeveloped nations." Last week, Otaiba charged that the major oil companies were using the shortfall in Iran to gouge inflated prices from developing nations and said the money "should be returned to its rightful owners." Shortly after he made the statement, OPEC members Qatar and the United Arab Emirates announced increases of up to 7 percent in the price of their light crudes. Saudi Arabia also is charging more for some of the extra oil it is producing to offset the decrease in Iranian output. The Middle East Economic Survey, an authoritative oil weekly, said the oil ministers would not discuss prices at the Geneva meeting, but would give their attention to the supply crisis caused by events in Iran. The publication said the ministers decided on this format "in order to gain the acquiescence of Saudi Arabia which still opposes any direct reopening of the price issue at the present time." OPEC agreed last December to raise oil prices 14.5 percent in four stages during 1979.

Proposed bill to encourage use of gasol

United Press International AUSTIN — A Pampa senator announced he will introduce legislation to promote the development of gasohol as a possible alternative fossil fuel. Under the program, the Energy Advisory Council would make available five matching grants of up to $4 million for the construction of grain alcohol plants or processing facilities. Any city, county, corporation, partnership or individual could apply for the matching grants. Sen. Bob Price said Monday also would introduce a bill exempting all fuels containing at least 10 percent alcohol derived from Texas agricultural or forest products. Another bill would provide state funding for a gasohol plant.
