Indian Association to host India Day celebration tonight

By Danielle Pontiff THE BATTALION

Srini Neralla, a Texas A&M soil microbiology graduate student from Bangalore, India, thinks his country is somewhat misunderstood by Americans.

"India is perceived as a poorly developed coun-," Neralla said. "Not many Americans know about its culture or investment opportunities." As president of the A&M chapter of the India Association, an international organization with 500 members, Neralla said he wants to increase awareness of what India has to offer the A&M community.

The IA will host an India Day celebration tonight at 7:30 in 201 MSC commemorating Republic Day, an Indian holiday in honor of India's independence from England, gained 46 years ago. The guest of honor will be Swashpawan Singh, Indian consul at the U.S. Consulate in Houston.

Dr. Malon Southerland, A&M vice president for student affairs, will attend the celebration to honor International Student Services staff members Neralla said everyone is welcome to attend the free cultural celebration, which will be followed by a $5 dinner featuring Indian cuisine.

"Our emphasis is to show people what Indian culture is," Neralla said. "This is typically done through dance performances and music.

Performances will include a dance presentation by the Anjali Center for Indian Performing Arts in Houston and an IA student presentation of music from Indian movies.

Amitabh Mishra, a computer science graduate student who is in charge of the music presentation, said there is a big difference between music in Indian movies and in American movies

"Indian songs are very different from Western songs in that they are highly romantic, not very melancholy or sad," Mishra said. "In all Indian movies, the songs are actually mouthed by the actors and actresses, so they seem to be singing. There is not background music like there is in American films.

Ravi Iyer, a biochemistry and biophysics graduate student at Texas A&M at Galveston, will make a poster presentation focusing on India's recent developments in science and technology

India has one of the fastest growing economies in the world," Iyer said. "It is the second largest exporter of computer software and is a viable destination for investment.

Iyer said trends in Indian business, industry and commerce indicate great opportunities for an American market. "The people of India are excited about recent trends in the economy," Iyer said. "But very few people are aware of the sort of things that are taking place. Now is an appropriate time to make Americans more aware of India's culture and growing market.

ed unanimously Thursday to increase speed limits to as high as 70 mph on state roads within Austin, Dallas and San Antonio.

State law gives cities the right to set the limits on state roads within their jurisdictions, but those limits must be backed by engineering studies.

City officials in Austin, Dallas, San Antonio and Corpus Christi had been fighting for speed limits lower than those called for by state safety studies,

State safety standards presume that the speed at which 85 percent of motorists are driving is safe.

Austin Mayor Bruce Todd argued the commission should err on the side of safety.

"I will submit that a safer speed is a lower speed in areas where there is high congestion," he said.

Todd added that drivers would get to their destinations less than five minutes faster going 65 mph compared to 55 mph and estimated the savings would drop to one minute with traffic congestion.

to drive a speed they consider unreasonable

"Speed limits are posted to advise motorists of the speed which is considered safe by the majority of drivers," he said.

"Posting speeds below what motorists see as reasonable and prudent puts the majority of drivers in violations of the law, places unnecessary burdens on law enforcement personnel, leads to a lack of credibility of speed limits and leads to a use of large tolerances of speed by law enforcement.'
