Spurs rout Suns for 17th straight

San Antonio compiled a perfect 16-0 record in March

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs completed an unbeaten month of March with their 17th straight victory Sunday, 97-83 over the Phoenix Suns, becoming only the second team in NBA history to go 16-0 in a month.

The Spurs, whose winning streak began Feb. 29, matched the 16-0 record set by the Los Angeles Lakers in 1972. Nine other teams have had undefeated months of 12 to 15 victories.

David Robinson scored 22 points, Avery Johnson had 20, Sean Elliott had 17 points, 10 rebounds and five assists and Charles Smith scored 12 points. Kevin Johnson scored 19, Michael Finley had 16 and Danny Manning came off the bench to add 14 for Phoenix, which had its three-game winning streak snapped.

The Suns had a rough first quarter, going just 5-of-22 from the field, and trailed 25-16 heading into the second period. Charles Barkley was 1-of-9 in straight layups for a 78-65 lead. Robinson's has 13,998 career points. If he reaches 14,000, he'll become the 89th NBA player to hit the mark.

Spurs guard Dell Demps was placed on the injured list due to back spasms. Forward Carl Herrera returned to active status. He had been on the list since March 22 due to gastroenteritis.

Among the other teams to go undefeated in a month are the Boston Celtics (15-0 in December, 1959), Chicago Bulls (14-0, Jan. '96), Lakers (14-0, Nov. '71), Phoenix Suns (14-0 Dec. '92), Houston Rockets (14-0, Nov. '93) and New York Knicks (14-0, March, '94). One team had a 13-0 month and two had 12-0 months.

Tennessee's size routed Georgia's speed in the title tilt, 83-65

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Tennessee was bigger and stronger, Georgia was quicker. In this case, bigger was better.

Tennessee dominated inside and got some inspired defense from Latina Davis in beating Southeastern Conference rival Georgia 83-65 Sunday night to win its fourth NCAA championship.

Tennessee now has twice as many national titles as any other school in 15 years of NCAA play. The Lady Vols won their previous championships in 1987, 1989 and 1991 — all under current coach Pat Summitt.

Tennessee's players donned the traditional championship caps and pranced around the court in celebration. Summitt, wearing a burnt orange pantsuit, watched calmly from the sidelines and chatted with a television reporter.

Tennessee's Michelle Marciniak, who had 10 points, five assists and two steals, was named the outstanding player in the Final Four. She scored 21 in a semifinal victory over defending champion Connecticut on Friday night.

Abby Conklin helped with some timely 3-point shooting for the Lady Vols, who had lost at Georgia 77-71 during the season. Tennessee out-rebounded Georgia 63-30 in that game and enjoyed another big edge on the boards Sunday night, this time 54-39.

That total included 21 offensive rebounds, which led to 17 second-chance points.

Davis, Tennessee's leading scorer in the tournament, stood out with her defense by shutting down Georgia's All-America guard, Saudia Roundtree.

Roundtree had promised coach Andy Landers a national championship when she signed with Georgia out of junior college two years ago, but she couldn't make it happen.

The 5-foot-7 senior, who had

63 points in her two previous tournament games, rarely was able to get Georgia into its deadly transition game and scored only eight points on 3-for-14 shooting. She went scoreless in the second half.

Freshman Chamique Hold-sclaw led Tennessee (32-4) with 16 points and 14 rebounds. Tiffani Johnson also scored 16 for the Lady Vols and Conklin added 14, including four 3-pointers. Pashen Thompson had 12 points and 11 rebounds.

La'Keshia Frett led Georgia (28-5) with 25 points but had only seven in the second half. Tracy Henderson scored 16.

Ahead 42-37 at halftime despite shooting only 43 percent, Tennessee opened the second half with a 15-5 run to increase its lead to 57-41.

Conklin hit two 3-pointers during that stretch and four other Tennessee players scored as the Lady Vols took control.
