
A mother's counsel is a golden treasure;

Consider well and listen not to folly.
—Firdusi.

High School Boys, Attention!

Certain things have no doubt impressed you at A. and M.—the size of the campus, perhaps; the number of buildings and their appearance; the actual workings of the college; laboratory and farm practice; cadet life; campus scenes; and all college activities.

Every one of these are being pictured in high class photogravures, and soon will appear in a new "Pictorial Annual," which is to be off the press about ten days before Christmas. Samples of these will be shown you during your stay here, and if you desire a beautiful collection of six dozen pictures, together with an artistic calendar, you may, for a very reasonable price, have the Annual sent to your address in about two weeks.

Perhaps you will need one for "a friend." Ask the A. and M. boys about the Annual.
