How About the Owl.

The following news article in The Houston Chronicle concerning the possession of a supposedly wise old bird may be of interest to Bulletin "Subscribers":

"In addition to breaking the hoodoo Tuesday night by defeating the Rice basketball team, the visiting Aggies made off with the large gray owl which was paraded about the Auditorium between halves. After the parade the Rice collegians in whose hands the owl had been intrusted unwittingly left the homemade bird within eyesight of A. and M. supporters

"When A. and M. won out in the closing minutes of play the bird was temporarily forgotten. A few hours later it was speeding northward on a Houston and Texas Central train.

"A member of the Aggie five wired of his team's success that night and also said in the message that a rare trophy was being brought to College Station. As a result of the message, nearly 1000 cadets met the train at the depot, while the cadet band ground out the music

"The Rice owl is to be given a place of honor in the A. and M.

Basketball Results.

A. and M. won from Louisiana Industrial College at Lafayette Wednesday night by the score of 28 to 16. The Aggies lost to L. S. U. Thursday night. Score 24 to 15. They played L. S. U. again last night and will meet Tulane tonight.
