

Pittuck being absent. Roll call found a large attendance. The program was then taken up and the reader, essayist and declaimer being absent, Mr. Cook kindly ventured to fill the place of the declaimer. He declaimed a piece entitled "The Parody on the Raven." His delivery was perfect and he held his audience with the attention due a genius of that grand gift of elocutionary power. During this time the Calliopean society having adjourned, re-assembled in our hall, and among them was one of Bryan's most charming daughters, Miss Duskie Walker, whose smiling countenance and pleasant looks lightened up our society hall exceedingly, and will state here that we thank this young lady for her presence and hope she will make us another visit soon.

After our brothers of the other society were seated the debate was begun. The subject was, Resolved that Gen. Houston did not exercise good judgment in giving Santa Anna his liberty. Mr. Mills came forward as champion of his, the affirmative side, and delivered an eloquent speech; then came Mr. Gross, representing the negative side, and at his conclusion the debate seemed about a tie, but Mr. Fitzgerald volunteered, in behalf of the affirmative side, and when through with his little talk left the negative side in rather a critical condition, and but for the timely assistance of Mr. Ferguson the negative would have suffered defeat, but his burning eloquence and oratorical ability carried it through all dangers and finally won for it the laurels of victory, as the tribunal decided two for negative and one for affirmative.

After the programme was finished a motion was made that at our next meeting we have only a short business meeting and then adjourn in a body to the special public meeting of the Calliopean society to be held in the Assembly Hall, which motion was carried and the society adjourned.

The Dramatic Club.

At the last meeting of the Club Misses McConnico, Webb, Shepard, Hutson, Lagrome, Mrs. Morse and Mr. John Waldron were elected honorary members.

Gov. and Mrs. L. S. Ross and Lieut. Morse have the most sincere thanks of the club for many courtesies extended, and the young ladies who assisted so pleasantly in the recent play completely won the hearts of all the college.

The Club feels much gratified at its recent success and contemplates putting on another play early in '94.

Society Meeting.

November 25th being the night for the special public meeting of the Calliopean society, we assembled in our society hall merely to transact some important business and adjourn to the meeting of the other societies. Therefore President Pittuck called the society to order and after roll call Messrs. Coulter H. and Kerr E. took the oath of allegiance and were accordingly declared members of the society. After this ceremony President Pittuck announced to the society that the object of the meeting was for the purpose of electing new officers, and upon approval of the society the following officers were elected:

President, E. C. Jonas; Vice-President, E. G. Abbott; Recording Secretary, A. Gross, (re-elected); Financial Secretary, Watkins; Treasurer, R. P. Mills; Censor, Mathews; Critic, R. Fowler; Sergeant at Arms, B. C. Pittuck; Corresponding Secretary, A. M. Ferguson; Librarian, F. Houston.
