

H. T. Jonas and wife were among the visitors to the college. Mr. Jonas has for several years been draughtsman in the S. P. R. R., B. B. division. He has in the past secured good positions for members of the Alumni Association.

E. W. Hutchinson and wife, of Houston, graced the occasion with the charm of their presence and added much pleasure to the enjoyment of their friends.

E. Gruene, '87, is a professor of music in New Braunfels, and his violin solo was one of the most pleasant features of the occasion. He is a graduate of one of the best conservatories of music and gives promise of attaining eminence in his profession.

L. A. Cottingham, '86, C. E., is on the S. P. R. R. of Houston. May we see you again at our next meeting. The editor is waiting or we would add more of what we feel for you, old boy.

We regret very much to have to state that Professor D. Adriance, '86, who has been assistant professor of chemistry at this college ever since his graduation, has been forced, on account of continued ill health, to resign, the resignation to take effect with the close of the session. His record at this college, both as a cadet and as a professor, has been such as to earn him the respect and esteem of all who ever came in contact with him, both socially and in the class room, and it is the sincere wish of all who know him that a change of climate and freedom from the confining duties of a teacher will soon restore him to health.

William Wood, '88, State agent for Williams' typewriter, made his reputation with the Alumni by the readiness and skill he displayed in telling college yarns, when suddenly called on at the banquet to respond to the toast: "Incidents and Escapades of College Life."

L. D. Amsler, '89, of Hempstead, was around with the boys and is a solid man among cotton seed oil men. His interest in the business meeting was sufficient to induce him to come under discouraging circumstances. Such interest is appreciated, my friend.

J. W. Hawkins, '93, was around with the boys and will come next year. He made his reputation with Commandant B. C. Morse as the best military man in the corps.

It is strange to see what a striking likeness there is in the love for his alma mater and the fresh enthusiasm for all that is going on in the shape of fun and sight-seeing shown by the almost middle-aged graduate of the early days of the
