

THE BATTALION.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

SUNDAY.

Sunday opened such a day as to make every heart leap for joy. A bright, beautiful, balmy day in which nature seemed to be doing her best. The bright smiles and look of anticipation on the face of every cadet showed that something unusual was about to happen, indeed the commencement exercises of the college had begun.

First according to program came the grand inspection promptly at 9 a. m. in which the boys enjoyed the treat, not of having their quarters inspected by the commandant and
