

"Eastman College Magazine," of Sulphur Springs, Texas. Although its articles are short, we think no one will regret reading "The Three Pins," "Cæsar's Personal Traits" and "What Can I Do." They all show that their writers have given their subject some little study and thought. I would especially commend the third article mentioned above.

As a maid nice
With step precise
Tripped o'er the ice
 She slipped, her case in vain.
And at the fall
With usual gall
The school boy,s call
 "Third down, two feet to gain."—Ex.

"The College Barometer" of Corvallis, Oregon, is a very neat little magazine. In the article entitled, "A Patriot in Spain," by Dennis H. Stovall, I think he makes his hero act a little too rash. One would hardly expect any sensible person to do as the hero of his story did, and come out alive. Otherwise the story is very good. "A Bit of Experience," by E. C. Powers, is I must say not much of a story and I felt that I had gained nothing by reading it.
