Mrs. Love of Franklin, Texas, recently visited her son, Prof. A. C. Love.

The students are invited to sympathize with a quiet and pleasant professor of the college who, while in San Antonio, occupied a seat near the door of a crowded cable car when a masterful stout woman entered. Having no newspaper behind which to hide, he was fixed and subjugated by her glittering eye. He rose and offered his place to her. Seating herself without thanking him, she exclaimed in strident tones that reached to the farthest end of the car, "Say, what do you want to stand up there for? Come here and sit down on my lap." Professor: "Mr. Brim, what is sound?" Brim: "Sound are those vibrations of a body which affect the vocal organs."

Nature seldom makes a fool. She simply furnishes the raw material and lets the fellow finish the job to suit himself.

Wheeler, speaking to a couple of boys, says: "You are past reforming and should study pharmacy."

Sherer jollied Fitz much about the sandwiches.

Boettcher: "I took my lady to church last night." High Private: "What was the text?" Boettcher: "Love ye one another."
