

when short distances were to be gained, but this is partly the fault of the captain, who should keep closer to his quarter in directing the team. Shultz's game at end proves that he has it in him to make one of the best ends in the South by working hard, getting in some fine tackles and doing some excellent work in breaking interference. He is inclined to play a little high and does not strive hard enough to recover a ball if once he muffs it. Astin's work at tackle was particularly strong; his line bucking has made him a feature of every game. Captain Moseley at other tackle likewise did fine work, especially on defensive in interference; he uses his head instead of his shoulder with less effects. The playing of the three center men was a revelation to all. While they are big and strong, they are inclined to be slow, but they have been playing the game of their lives, and if they can be kept awake and on the aggressive should be hot center men in Texas. Their defensive work was almost above criticism. Plays started in their direction usually broke with a gurgle and subsided like the sad sea waves on a rock bound coast. They could be more effective by getting out on ends and aiding the tacklers. This Weinert is beginning to learn and Kildow is following him. Boettcher held the man said to be the best center rush in Texas and played all around him. This young man is capable of playing a fine game if once aroused from his lethargic manner.

The best of feeling exists between the teams and the result of the game is unsatisfactory to both and it is the hope of each that another game can be arranged for later in the season, so we may see who really is best man. Should the game be arranged, we are confident victory will be ours. Barring kicks, A. and M. gained four times as much ground as 'Varsity in carrying the ball. The teams lined up as follows:

SEWANEE FOOTBALL GAME.

A. and M. went down in honorable defeat before the mighty Sewanee team in what proved to be one of the fiercest and most brilliant contests ever seen on the southern gridiron. The game was played in Houston on Nov. 10 and witnessed by a crowd of about 600 people, who made up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers. Sewanee has a team of gentlemanly players who go into the game for all there is in it and play a hard, fast and beautiful game of football. They are unmistakably the champions of the South this year, and the A. and M. cannot but feel gratified that she gave Sewanee her hardest and fiercest battle of the year, resulting in the lowest score. Sewanee had every advantage over the Cadets—in age, weight and experience—having
