A fellow in G——'s algebra class told his ma that he was going to study common fractions, but his ma insisted that he should study the very best fractions they had in school.—Exchange.

She (nervously trying to break the ice)—Do you have rein-deer in Canada?

He (quickly)—Why, yes; but it snows sometimes.—Exchange.

Professor—I'm glad you're first at last; you have always been behind before.

Student—(Exit.)—Exchange.

We sat alone, while round about
The darkness settled o'er us,
Till prudent mother moon came out
And satellite before us.—Ex.

"What's that young photographer doing in the parlor with Mary without a light?"

"Developing a negative, probably."
