

Meek, the man of inspiration.

* * *

“Cute”—Henry S. Davenport.

* * *

Storrs & Craig, the mathematicians.

* * *

Boone, chief carver of “B” Company.

* * *

Cobolini, J. L., the ex-trombone-player.

* * *

Cobolini, J. A., the Archimedes of A. & M.

* * *

Max Mayer and Gooch, the double-headers.

* * *

Was Bill Coulter ever known to shut a door?

* * *

Dunn and Whatley, the “scarred veterans.”

* * *

Sargeant Yocum is the biggest bat in bat-roost.

* * *

Cobolini, J. A.—The football news reporter.

* * *

Gilliam, the Tailor.—Pants pressed while you wait.

Who “piked” on the 1st class? Ask Lieut. Sanders.

* * *

Loving, the star football player of A Company.

* * *

Ask Woodall why he is afraid of No. 3. “Batright?”

* * *

Heidleberg, prosecuting attorney of Austin Hall bar.

* * *

November 3rd and 4th were red letter days for Lusk.

* * *

Oh, my! What beautiful flowers Lusk gets from Bryan.

* * *

McCall (in soliloquy): “Wonder why my girl doesn’t write?”

* * *

George Hope made 50 in football and 31 in English last month.

* * *

Drum Major: “Left face; right face again; forward march!”

* * *

Ask Steedman where he got his crochet-needle and the red sash.