TRACK ATHLETICS AT A. & M.

The season for football is rapidly drawing to a close, and in our enthusiasm for the most strenuous and exciting of sports, we should not forget the other teams, particularly the track team. The baseball team, with the prestige of a long list of victories last spring, will in a large measure take care of itself.

Not so the track team which as yet has no leader and no organization. For two years we have not been represented in this branch of athletics, and unless we are represented this year, we lose our membership in the Intercollegiate Athletic Association. This we cannot afford to do. We must have a track team, and it goes without saying, a good one.

We have here a student body that, taken physically, is equal to any in the country. As a result of our military training our students are always in training. In the big universities of the North and East training for the track team goes on throughout the entire winter, but this training must be indoors in cramped and stuffy gymnasiums; here we can train all winter in the open air.

Very little equipment is needed, likewise little room. You can put the shot or practice jumping right out in front of your own room. Another thing worth considering is that you do not have to wait for a whole team to come out before you can begin your training, but can train independently at whatever time is most convenient.

Let the different classes elect their track captains, and let them and the athletic managers at once begin a canvass of the athletic material in their respective classes.

And, taking a step further, why not have a cross country club at A. & M.? Those who have read books dealing with English school life, such as Tom Brown at Oxford, will remember what a prominent part long distance runs play in the life of the English student. America holds the records for the short dashes, but England is supreme in the middle and long distances that depend so much upon endurance.

The country about the College is admirable for cross country runs. A few minutes brisk walk in any direction takes one to the timbered country, which is so necessary to make these runs enjoyable. The old English game of Hare and Hounds or "paper chase" might be introduced to good advantage.

The leading colleges and universities throughout the country now have their cross country clubs. At Cornell there are very few clubs in which membership is more eagerly sought. At Columbia, Yale, Chicago, Michigan and Northwestern, to name only a few, these clubs add greatly to the student life. Why not have one here, where location and climatic conditions are so much more favorable?

Dallas News: What would be more interesting, what would give more impetus to the factory movement than a display of factory operations where a majority of the adult population of the State gathers annually? Just as a starter on this line, The News would suggest the installation of a cotton mill on the State Fair grounds. It believes that it can be provided at a very moderate cost, and further believes that a mutually satisfactory arrangement for its operation could be made between the Fair Association and the textile school of the Agricultural and Mechanical College. It need not stop with a display of cotton manufacturing. The making of other goods and wares could be profitably illustrated.

We hope the suggestion of The News will be adopted. A. & M. will furnish the right sort of men if Dallas will do her part.

Fall Opening of the New Styles for Men

This is the great Clothing event of the year—our advance showing of the new Fall and Winter models. As everyone knows who is at all posted on the subject, the new styles are very largely originated by the Schloss designers and later copied by others.

The present season is a good illustration. Now that our Fall stock is here, we can show you new advance models that will not be generally offered for at least two or three months.

It will pay you to see these splendid garments. Not only are you certain of the new style and the right style, but the quality, fit and incomparable workmanship of these garments are thoroughly exclusive characteristics. Furthermore we have very few duplicates and our best will be quickly taken. See them now; we will reserve your selection until later, if you so desire.

The New "Harvard" Sack

Fashions don't come from London and Paris any more—most of them are brought out at the great universities like Harvard, Yale, Princeton and other famous institutions.

Here is one of the best of the new designs for Fall—called the "Harvard" because the model came from there—well shown in the illustration. You'll find it just as correct for business wear in New York or San Francisco as it is on the Harvard campus. This is only one of our "University" Models—ask to see them.

Don't confuse this design with the ordinary "straight-fronts" that you may see. The similarity ends there. Little differences of line and shape and proportion, impossible to describe, give this "Harvard" Suit an unusual character and smartness specially brought out by the fine tailoring.

Our Schloss Suits cost from $12.50 to $25.00
Others $5.00 up

FIRST COMPANY GAME.

"C" Company 12; "B" Company 8—
A Good Game.

"C" and "B" companies tied up Tuesday for the first company game of the season. "C" company had the best of the game during all the first half; but throughout the second half neither side could get the advantage, and they had to fight it out near the center of the field. "C" tried the forward pass, but was unable to make it work.

Buchanan and both Roseboroughs made many good runs and good gains through tackle were frequent. B company was unable to get around Smith and Darter. Ehlers who had the hardest man on B's team against him got down on the kicks in good shape. Both touchdowns were made in the first half; Roseborough and Smith carrying the ball across. Roseborough kicked both goals. Maedgen, Elliott, Warden and Arnold put up the game for B company. Following is the line up:

"C" "B"
Ehlers C Maedgen
