MANY HEAR MISS KIDD.

People of Bryan, as Well as College Students, Attend Her Recital.

The much heralded recital by Miss Mary Carson Kidd was given in the chapel last Saturday night at eight o'clock, under the auspices of the Glee Club. To say that the entertainment came up to expectations would be putting it lightly. Miss Kidd more than fulfilled the many promises made for her. Our musical critics pronounce the recital the greatest thing in the way of music that we have ever had at College.

Many cadets were present, as well as students from Allen Academy and Texas Womans' College, and residents of Bryan and College Station. Standing room down stairs was at a premium. A special train was run to accommodate the crowd from Bryan.

Miss Kidd was repeatedly encored during the performance. Her voice is unusually clear, and she sings seemingly without effort—certainly with no straining effect. She was ably accompanied by her brother, Mr. Aldridge B. Kidd, at the piano. Mr. Kidd is the composer of several pieces on the program. His "Wynken, and Blyken and Nod" was especially applauded.

The program rendered is given below:

Fulgham Visits Texas.

After a thorough tour of Texas, Arkansas and the Territories, Hamden McK. Fulgham, representing the Census Bureau at Washington, D. C., dealing directly in cotton ginning statistics, is firmly of the opinion that the Farmers' Union in these States will solve the marketing problem of the cotton planter. He traversed Texas from the Panhandle to Houston. Mr. Fulgham visited Bryan on his tour through this state.—Bryan Eagle.

This trip of Mr. Fulgham's is of especial interest to our Agricultural students, for it will only be a few years until the present A. & M. boys will be among the leading cotton producers of the state, and they are always desirous of obtaining information or instruction in that line of work.

It is perhaps a good thing we have an excellent pair of scissors. If we didn't, there would probably be some "white space" showing.

A cane rush started just for fun,
To see which class could make the run,
And in the thickest of the fight,
The Bull came running with all his might;
He yelled: "Attention!" but sad to say
The boys took his call another way;
They took no heed, but labored on,
They thought he said "just an inch on."
So on they fought with might and main,
To win the rush and carry the cane.
Then comes the President, and in he ran,
Says, "Stop this fight or you'll kill a man."
And now dear Sophs lets end the strife,
And take this game from College life
