ANNUAL INSPECTION EARLY NEXT MONTH.

The personnel of the board of officers appointed for the purpose of making the annual inspection of the military departments of educational institutions at which officers of the army are detached as professors of military science and tactics, is announced in an extract from the War Department at Washington. The board consists of Capt. Benjamin T. Simmons, general staff; Capt. Harry H. Tebbetts, general staff; Capt. Charles E. Kilbourne, general staff; Capt. W. H. Raymond, coast artillery corps.

The exact date of the inspection is not as yet known, although in all probability it will be held either the latter part of March or early in April.—The Reveille (L. S. U.)

A MILITARY SATIRE.

(By "Fatty" Saper.)

Since the way in which we look upon a thing greatly determines our attitude towards it, when I entered A. & M. I determined not to look upon drill as a hateful duty, which of necessity must be performed, but as a favorite pastime. At first my will power was scarcely strong enough to force me to take this attitude, but as time went on I became used to it and now look upon it not merely as a pleasure but even as my favorite diversion.

I am no longer held in terror by drill call. Battalion and company inspections are pleasures never dreamed of before. The manual of arms is as water to dry land. Guard mount, especially grand guard mount, is to my weary brain as oil upon stormy waters.

The command, "Double time!" and rapid cadence as called out by the "Mighty Caesar" (in the awkward squad) only add to my delight. The height of joyousness arrives with dress parade. My heart jumps up and down with eager anticipation when I hear the merry notes of adjutant's call. How happy I feel when the regiment marches out to the martial strains of the band! How inspiring it is to see the band march up and down and to hear them playing a beautiful melody and to realize that I form a small part of the corps! The culmination of my almost intoxicating pleasure is reached when the majors and their staffs approach the center. I feel that it is a privilege, indeed a great privilege, to be allowed to view their military walk, their beautiful step, and neat attire.

Looking upon drill in this manner has aided me to look upon other things in a different manner, and I can say with assurance that drilling is my favorite pastime.

SYMPATHETIC CAESAR.

At the ball game Monday between the Buffaloes and A. & M., Caesar Hohn pulled off a stunt that was equal to a circus. He went in about the fifth and caught two innings. During the course of the game, after it became evident that the Farmers were losing, Caesar could be seen down on his knees in the catcher's box crying and pleading like a heart-broken boy for the pitcher to put the ball in the right place. Evidently the Houston fellows had never seen anything like it before, for they laughed till the tears came. The fans were amused equally as much.

Easily Explained.

The question has been propounded: "On what footing is college hazing now?"

It isn't on any footing at all while they are making the fish stand on their heads.
