

Much to the pleasure and surprise of the Freshmen, the Sophomores caught in instead of the "Fish" on the night of the Junior Banquet.

FORT WORTH STOCK SHOW

A. & M. College Sent Class in Stock Judging and Also Fine Stock Exhibit—R. S. Miller Wins First Prize.

The Aniaml Husbandry Department of A. & M. had about the best exhibit, this year, at the National Feeders and Breeders' Show that it ever had. Twenty or more students attended the show, between March 18 and 23, either in the capacity of a judging class or for the purpose of learning more about stock. Some of the men at the head of the A. H. department took a lively interest in the big exposition, and John C. Burns acted as official judge of sheep.

The students who attended the fat stock show were J. A. Scofield, R. S. Miller, R. E. Caldwell, W. E. Crockett, J. L. Culberson, E. P. Menke, W. S. Tolbert, E. O. Staben, R. J. Anderson, R. W. Cox, W. A. Massey, C. M. Cocanougher, A. F. Reese, R. L. Nixon, J. A. Lutrich, J. C. Jensen, W. W. Cardwell, R. R. Rosa, R. V. Simon and Thaxton.

Those who represented the college in the intercollegiate students' livestock judging contest held in connection with the show were selected from the Junior class in animal husbandry, which is composed of thirty-three members. The judging team was made up of five Juniors who were selected by individual competitive work, the competition having narrowed down to seven students, namely, J. A. Scofield of Hillsboro, R. S. Miller of San Saba, R. E. Caldwell of Bryan, W. E. Crockett of Prosper, J. L. Culberson of Waxahachie, E. P. Menke of Hempstead and W. S. Tolbert of Miami, the first five having been chosen for the team.

Prof. G. S. Templeton, instructor in animal husbandry, did the coaching of these men for the team. The contest took place on Monday, March 18, and was participated in by teams from Oklahoma A. & M. College, Jonesboro (Ark.) Agricultural School and A. & M. of Texas. Oklahoma won first place in the tryout for whole teams, but R. S. Miller, of whom we are proud, made the highest individual score of the contest, thereby winning prize of $50. This is the first time as many as three teams have taken part in the contest and there is promise of considerable interest and enthusiasm. In the future there will very likely be several other Southwestern institutions represented.

Classes of horses, cattle, sheep and swine were judged. A handsome silver trophy cup offered by Swift & Co. went to the team making the highest average score in judging all classes, and in addition there was $100 in cash prizes for individuals, according to the average score in judging all classes, the first prize being $50, the second $25, the third $15 and the fourth $10.

Prof. Burns took the following exhibit of livestock belonging to the college to Fort Worth:

Cattle.

One senior yearling shorthorn bull, which won first both in the open and closed classes.

One grade shorthorn yearling steer, which won second in the class under shorthorn specials.

Two pure-bred Angus steer calves, which won first and second in the Angus class, and one of them won the championship in the Angus steer classes. This calf also gave the calf that was finally made grand champion of the show a close race for first place in the class for champions by ages.

Hogs.

In the hog exhibit first and second prizes were won on Tamworth barrows under twelve months, and also won the premium for champion Tamworth barrow.

In the Berkshire class first and third premiums for barrows under twelve months; also won premium for champion Berkshire barrow. Won second premium on pen of five hogs weighing between 175 and 225 pounds. A creditable showing was made in exhibits of the barrow classes for Poland-Chinas and Duroc-Jerseys.

All of this goes to show the practicability of our agricultural methods.
