

Do You Know Why L. System Clothes Have a Place All Their Own?

Why they are not thought of or compared with other clothes for young fellows?

It's because they've got the pep, the personality; because there's not a common feature in them except common sense quality.
It's because they are light and gay in fabric and modeling and trustworthy in value were included in the collection. There were current publications of the period of fifty and sixty years ago, such as the American Almanac, which was published in the forties. In fact, one number of this almanac was so far back that it foretold the coming "the next year" of Halley's comet on its journey seventy-five years ago. There were files of technical magazines running back for many years; a complete bound set of Harper's Magazine starting with Vol. 1 in 1850; bound vol-

French. The library included also full sets of messages of the president published by the government, records of the Civil war, a government publication; and thousands of federal government bulletins, many of which are out of print. There were included also files of the daily papers of Texas running back several years. The library of the college is a depository for federal government publications, but many of the old bound volumes were not in the fire as they had been stored during the past year in a basement room in one of the dormitories.

There were no casualties, although Eggar McCullough came very near be-umes of the Atlantic Monthly, the Century, Political Science Quarterly and Popular Science Monthly going back to Vol. 1. There were many books of history, literature, art and biography which can not be replaced and which were priceless, and many books of literature in the original German and ing severely injured by a falling ember.

The Main Building was one of the oldest buildings on the campus, its only rival in point of age being Gathright Hall. Both were erected in 1876 and originally comprised the whole college. The Main Building was a
