

PROSPECTS FOR TRACK TEAM.

The prospects for a championship track team next spring are excellent. Manager Dan Scott called a meeting of all those interested in track last week. Almost fifty men responded, and there were a good many more who were not able to get there that night who will come out later.

Dudley Everett, the captain of the team, will be in excellent shape next spring, as he will be in training all fall and winter. Collins, Rothe, Haines, Braumiller, Turner, Mitchell, MacFadden, Hudson, Fry and Peabody are back again. The failure of Cover and Persons to return will hurt the team, but Coach Clutter will undoubtedly find some one to take their places from the wealth of new material which we have this year. Among the freshmen we have De Montell, the man who beat Kirksey on the hurdles; Settegast of Houston, who is a weight man; Butler of Baptist Academy, another weight man; Trant of Allen, quarter-miler; Starnes of Marshall, a sprinter, and Erskine of San Antonio, quarter and half-miler.

Coach Clutter is very well pleased with the material he has. He says the prospects are fine for a winning team. He is going to put the distance men to work as soon as the corps takes its trip, and from then on they will work steadily until next spring.

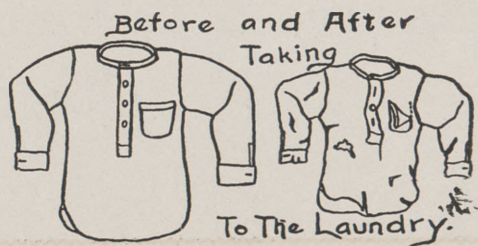

Little Stories of College Life

About ten days ago a homeless little brown and black dog made his appearance on the campus. But his lack of a home and a warm place to sleep at nights seemed to give him not the slightest concern, for he frisked about in his friendly and inquisitive way, following anyone who would give him the least encouragement. This habit of his caused him to follow someone to "retreat" the first afternoon he arrived and this accident seems to have developed in him a liking for military ceremony for he has never missed a formation since. When he was first noticed on the formation ground every cadet tried to whistle to him at the same time, and the poor, bewildered little pup knew not where to go. But now such trifles agitate his mentality not in the least, for, indeed, he is as likely to trot along with the regimental staff when the battalions are set in motion as he is to stay with some company.

He trots into the Mess Hall each evening with a cocksure air, and he is never allowed to go hungry. However, just to make him yelp and cause a sensation, a cadet will sometimes step on his tail, or rather, we should say, some one will pinch his tail, for he hardly has enough to step on.

Not long ago some "K" company fellows, presumably "fish," caught this little, innocent mascot of the corps and proceeded with shears to decorate him according to their ideas of beauty. In his clipped hair on one side can now be read the letter "K," and on the other "A. M. C.," "Kike." And this is the story of "Kike."
