

CHEMICAL CLUB HOLDS MEETING

PROF. FERMIER MAKES INTERESTING TALK AT REGULAR MEETING.

DR. FRAPS TO SPEAK NEXT

At the regular meeting of the Chemical Club, Monday, November 16, Prof. E. J. Fermier of the Mechanical Engineering Department spoke to the club on the subject, "The Relation of Chemical and Mechanical Engineering." It is always a treat to hear one of Prof. Fermier's lectures and the talk he gave to the Chemists was exceptionally good. His defini-

The Chemical Club is a real "live wire" in the A. & M. College and has an interesting program to present at every meeting. That its program committee is especially active is shown by the fact that they have been able to get on their programs such subjects as the above and have been able to secure the only men on the campus able to discuss these subjects best.

At the next meeting, December 6, Dr. G. S. Fraps, State Chemist and head of the Chemistry Department of the Experiment Station, will speak on "The Work of the Experiment Station." On December 21, Prof. F. C. Bolton will address the club on "The Relation of Chemistry to Electrical Engineering." Others will follow which will be equally interesting. Those who are interested will be given a hearty welcome by the Chemical Club.

Not only chemical engineers, but every student in the college will gain great advantage from hearing these lectures. They give one an insight to the work that is being done in the school and to the close relation existing between the different departments. This is information students should have. Come out to the society meeting and get acquainted.

Study Club.

The Campus Study Club met at the home of Mrs. C. A. Wood Tuesday, November 10. After a short business meeting the following program was given:

Roll call—Famous women of past and present.

Paper, "Women in Various Professions"—Mrs. M. L. Hayes.

Discussion, "The World's Famous Women of Today." Leader, Mrs. Hanson.

Reading, Tennyson's "Fair Women"—Mrs. Smart.

After this most interesting program Mrs. Wood served delicious refreshments.

Bridge Club.

On Thursday evening Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Hedges entertained the Campus Bridge Club. After several interesting games lovely refreshments were served.

Mrs. Youngblood Entertains.

Mrs. B. Youngblood was hostess to the ladies of the campus, whose husbands were out of town, on Friday, Nov. 13. The evening was passed with much merriment and the time to leave came all to soon. Delicious creamed chicken in patties, hot rolls, coffee and nuts were served. Those present were: Mesdames Evans of Bryan, Newell, Proctor, Bizzell, Francis and Morgan. Mrs. Youngblood also invited Misses Brook and Terrell of Navasota, Aileen Proctor and Louise Proctor.

500 Club.

The 500 Club was charmingly entertained by Mrs. Floyd Paddock on Friday afternoon, Nov. 13. The home was lovely with many pot plants and cut roses. At the end of seven close and interesting games Mrs. Paddock served an exquisite and delicious two-course luncheon. Mrs. Paddock was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Smith, of Colorado.

"BOUGHT AND PAID FOR."

There has been a great deal of interest manifested in the forthcoming engagement of George Broadhurst's stirring drama-comedy of married life, "Bought and Paid For," which played for one solid year at the Playhouse in New York City, and which will be seen in Bryan at the Colonial Theatre Monday, Nov. 23.

The plot deals with Robert Stafford, a handsome, young, self-made millionaire, and a man of domineering will, who woos Virginia Blaine, a pretty telephone operator at a fashionable hotel, while transacting business over the long distance wire. He invited her and her sister, Fanny, and Fanny's fiance, Jimmy Gilley, a self-conceited shipping clerk, with superfluous ideas, to visit his palatial home. While showing her the treasures of his bachelor quarters, he proposes and, although she does not love him, she is dazzled by her surroundings and accepts him. At the supper which follows, he proposes a toast to the future Mrs. Stafford, much to the surprise of the other guests.

Two years later the telephone girl is the wife of this money king, who has one serious fault that mars the happiness of her cherished domesticity. He occasionally comes home intoxicated, and when in this condition he is an entirely different being. Thus it occurs that in the second act Stafford comes home in this shape and disgusts his wife by his insinuations and by forcing his attentions upon her. In his frenzy he tells her his check book has been the means of making her his wife and establishing her in his home. But the next day she agrees to a reconciliation if he will foreswear drinking. This he refuses to do on the ground that he will not be dictated to. His wife leaves him and goes back to work. Brother-in-law Gilley has also come down in the world with his sister-in-law's difficulty with her husband, and informs her that by her quixotry she has absolutely ruined his career, and conspires to bring about a new arrangement of affairs. He calls the now penitent Stafford on the phone and tells him his wife wishes to see him. They meet and rush into each other's arms and all is forgiven.
