

and any one else, except as directed by the superintendent or his representative. Any violation of this rule will be punished by the expulsion of the offender.

3. The contestants shall be divided by the superintendent into four groups, A, B, C and D, and shall be so designated thereafter thruout the contest. Each contestant will be given a number and he shall put that number on all cards and papers and shall not use his name.

4. Each student shall be required to give reasons on the classes of stock. Each of the reasons shall be oral and half written.

Time.

1. In each class where reasons are to be given, twenty minutes will be allowed for the contestant to make his observation, record his placing, etc. In all other classes fifteen minutes will be allowed.

2. Fifteen minutes will be allowed the contestants for each set of written reasons and two minutes will be allowed for oral reasons. No contestant shall hold any paper, card or device that will assist him while he is giving his reasons before the judges, except that he will be handed the card he turned in, which he will be allowed to retain while giving reasons. Each contestant shall appear singly before the judges in giving his oral reasons.

Classes of Stock and Numbering.

1. Four animals shall constitute a class.

2. The animals shall be identified by the letters A, B, C and D on large gummed labels on the rump.

One does not realize just how hard a day's work is done in going thru such a contest unless having experienced it. The strain under which every contestant labors is considerable and adds more to the burden. The judges, too, worked hard and efficiently. The returns were posted at 10:50 p. m.

This annual event is a great thing for every man who takes part. He works hard to be eligible, works hard in the contest, and, maybe, loses, but he gains infinitely more knowledge in that one day than he will in any other day he spends here looking at livestock.

The actual experience in a judging contest for a fine medal brings out the ability of a man when text books and theory fail. This annual stock judging contest is becoming one of our best institutions and will help to "bring home the bacon" from contests we expect these men to participate in later.

GOOD RECORDS MADE BY A. & M. GUNNERS IN ANNUAL COMPETITION

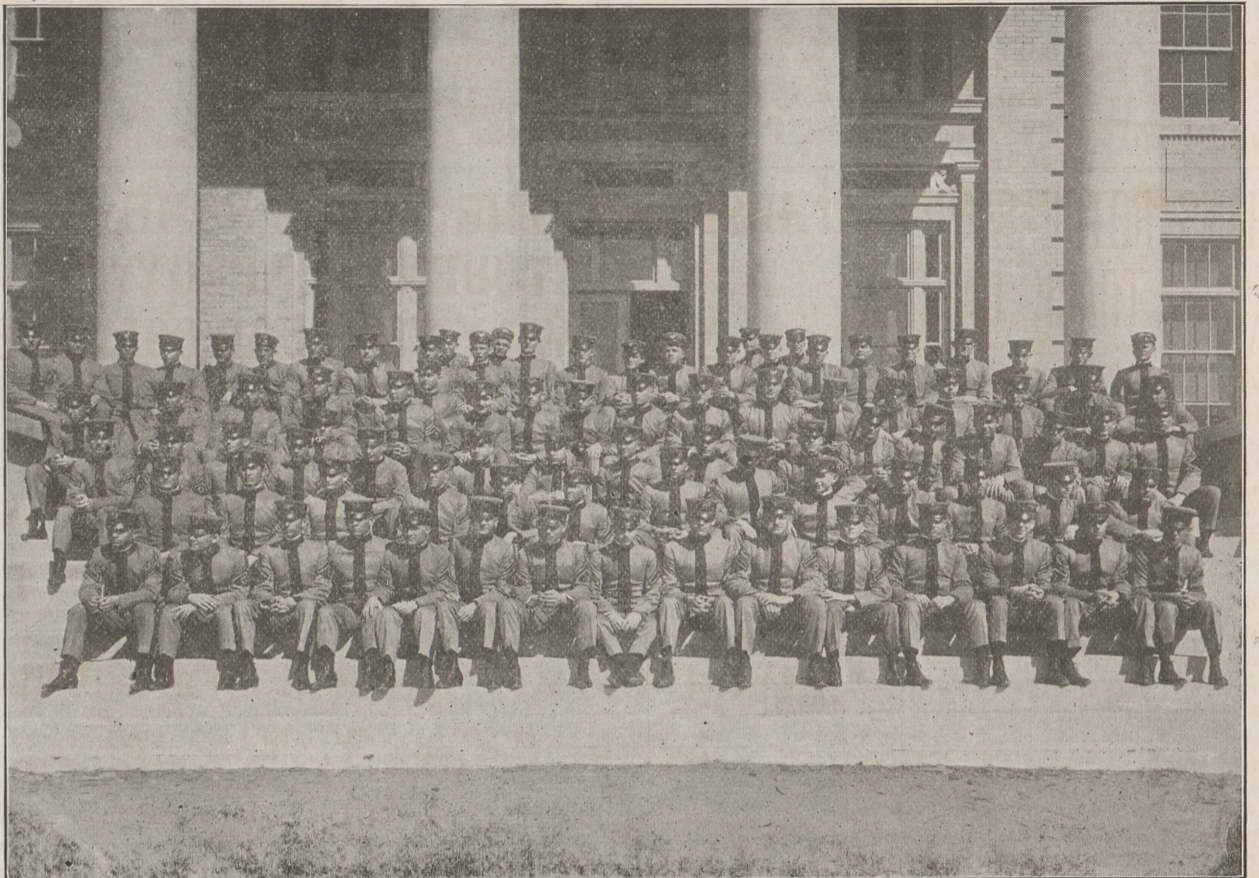

Texas Team Makes High Score in Competition Shoot With Kansas Aggies.

Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College rifle experts will compete with the rifle team from the Kansas A. & M. College. In the trials held at the local target range last week six men qualified. A. & M.'s score in the shoot with the Kansas Aggie was 815 out of a possible 1,000. The Kansas Aggies have not yet submitted their scores.

Last year in the competitive shoot A. & M.'s score was 743. In the shoot conducted by the War Department in the military academies the highest score made was 827, the second 826 and the third 774.

Two hundred A. & M. men are practicing at the target range. The
