

1918. He was then transferred to Camp Zachry Taylor, Kentucky, where he served with the 4th Observation Battery and later with the 38th Training Battery. He was preparing to cross the "pond" and help lick the Kaiser when the armistice was signed. R. K. gave up his commission on December 14, 1918 in order that he might return to A. and M. and finish his course. Ray is at present instrumental in making Battery "A" the best military organization in school.

Roy is also one of the premier clarinetists of the band. He enlisted in the Pfeuffer Hall aggregation when a fish and intends to remain with them throughout his four years at College.

One only has to know "Easy" to like him. His unassuming nature and many good qualities has made him popular in every organization with which he is connected. His rare "line" and ready laugh makes him an important addition to any "Bull Pen" and he never misses any. "Easy" has only two weaknesses. One of them is a deep rooted desire to learn chemistry and the other is an "erotic tendency" to love a certain inhabitant of Colorado Woman's College. Thus we see that the campus vamps have no strings upon him whatever.

We predict for Roy a happy and successful future. He is one of those fellows who gets the very most out of life.

E. M. WALKER, '21 (Azle)
Azle, Texas.

Civil Engineering, Fort Worth Club, Sergeant Battery A.—Chief 5th Section.

"Azle" was one of the few of last years fish who were selected for the Training Camp at Fort Sheridan. We knew he would make good and we were not disappointed, for, when the day of graduation came, Elmo was among those who won the hard-earned commission as Second Lieutenant, F. A. After spending his furlough at home, Walker was stationed with the 4th Observation Battery and later with the 38th Training Battery at Camp Zachary Taylor, Kentucky.

He was familiarly known as "Texas" at both army camps, and was a source of wonderment to the northern fellows. When it comes to telling tales about Texas he had a sailor skinned. Every night a group of them would gather about his bunk and listen with open mouth and dazzled eyes to his hair-raising tales of our State.

Elmo comes from the city of Azle, noted for its one general merchandise store and log school house. However, he hopes to put Azle on the map someday. Notwithstanding the fact that he thinks the world of Azle, he also directs his attention to Polytechnic, and has been known to state that no town has anything on "Poly" when it comes to girls. We're surprized at him for taking to the ladies so soon, but we all have our faults along these lines.

Elmo is a future Civil Engineer and good roads expert, and expects to help build fine roads all over our state. He is always in for a good time and he usually has one, nothing seems to worry him, and he has all of the essential qualities that go to make a successful man.

E. M. LONGCOPE,
First Sergeant.

"Eddy" left college to enter the army soon after war was declared. He entered the Officers Training Camp at Fort Sheridan and received his commission there September 18, 1918. He was then transferred to the Artillery and sent to the Field Artillery Officers Training School, Camp Zachry Taylor. He graduated from this school December 26, 1918. The armistice was signed before his graduation, and he was given the choice of remaining permanently in the army or returning to college. We have the wisdom of his choice to thank for a great measure of the highly satisfactory showing which the Battery has made to date. For "Eddy" is always on the job and his tireless efforts and great popularity among the men have worked wonders.

In addition to being the best "top" sergeant on the campus, Longcope is one of the best athletes as well. He has played two years on the basketball squad, was captain of the team this year, and was acknowledged, even by the Texas coaches, to be the greatest forward in the State.

BARNES, BONNER H. (PECK)
Santa Anna, Texas.

Chemical Engineering, West Texas Club, Chemical Engineering Club, Instrument Sergeant, Chief of B. C. detail, Battery A, Field Artillery.

"Peck" was commissioned as 2nd Lieutenant, Field Artillery from the officers training school at Fort Sheridan, Ill., on September 16th, 1918. He was transferred to Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., to complete his course in Field Artillery. Peck was at this camp when the armistice was signed. He received his discharge December 14, 1918, and after a short visit home returned to A. and M. College to complete his course in Chemical Engineering.

When Battery A, Field Artillery was formed at A. and M. Peck was made Instrument Sergeant and put in charge of the B. C. Detail.

Peck has made a great success in all of his undertakings and promises to carry these successes through his college work.
