

error, but after that Munch could not be touched in the pinches. In several innings they got men on bases, but Smoky pulled out of all holes by making a man pop up or by striking one out. The Aggies tied the score in the second inning. Rothe walked, took second on Powell's single to right, and scored when the third baseman overthrew first base on Davis' grounder. In the fourth inning Powell and Munch walked, sending Roger to second, from where he scored on Davis' single to left field. Powell was forced to retire in the fifth inning, when he caught one of Smoky's fast ones on a finger nail. Davis replaced him, and caught the rest of the trip in big league style. He had to "scrab" about a score arm, but the scarcity of stolen bases tells a different tale.

May day is a big day in Georgetown, so the Aggies politely made the home people feel good by handling them the baseball game. Daniels pitched a tight game, and allowed the Pirates only two hits and one earned run, but his wild heave to first in the seventh let in the winning run. The Pirates scored in the first, and the Aggies tied it in the fourth. The Pirates went ahead again with a run in the fifth, and the Aggies tied it up again in the sixth. But the home team's run in the seventh could not be ditted. Daniels struck out eleven Pirates.

Chairman Parson W. Smith had too much for Baylor to touch in Friday's appearance at Carroll Field, while his team-mates slammed two Bear hurlers for fourteen safe hits, and the Farmers won easily. Turner, the right-hander who worked parts of both games here, lasted five innings, but the Aggies slowed down to his slow ball in the sixth, and made good connection for three hits and two runs. Higginbotham singled and scored on Lewis' triple, following which Fish Guyons singled, two runs scoring. Rothe's hit and an error accounted for another run in the seventh, and in the eighth two more came in on singles by Lewis, Forrest, and Touchstone, and a squeeze which Rothe laid down a nice bunt on a hard chance. The Bears bunched two hits, a walk, and a sacrifice fly for a run in the ninth, but Smith ended things by fanning a pinch hitter.
