Charming President of the C. I. A. Junior Class.

In compliance with the Editor's request, Miss Mildred Parks of C. I. A. sends us the following message:

To the Junior Class of the A. and M. College:

The fact that we are so honored has filled us with the most elaborate manifestations of respect and gratitude. It is somewhat of an experience to us and a rare occasion in an institution of our pronounced habits and propensities. That we view your existence in the rosy aurora attained by the mirage of distance has only served to make you doubly interesting. You, with your energetic and highly original class spirit and your unlimited capacities—for being human,—have filled us with happy, unexpected sensations. We trust that the next year will serve to erase whatever ideas may have lingered in the secret crannies of your brain concerning our entirely feminine proclivities and typically studious antics. If that has been your idea, our one hope is that we will become something of a revelation to you, even as you have become to us.

Just now we are overwhelmed with admiration and in many respects adoration, as a result of our venturesome peek into college sentiment, but we trust that our relations for the coming year may proceed as they have begun, happily, with friendship, and an increasing amount of matchless brotherly and sisterly (?) love.

The Junior Class of the College of Industrial Arts.

MARY E. SMITH,
President.
