MIDNIGHT MUSINGS

It's a queer thing how a man with an hour to spare will try to spend it with the man who hasn't.

I wonder if the band concerts are influencing spring weather—they are doing pretty well so far.

If moustaches were money we know some seniors who couldn't pay for the string to tie up a ten-cent purchase.

Everybody knows the mule is a good kicker yet look at the mobs who just insist on being jackasses.

C.I.A. is taking lots of interest in the R. V. Hop—be patient girls, we sure won't let you suffer. (Besides, the uniforms are not here yet—there's lots of time).

At this season two Juniors can hardly say good morning without fear of a dictograph listening in with a couple of sophs listening on.

And another thing about Mr. Price's speech—we lost a perfectly good, long hour in a laboratory that can only be likened to a tomb.

Have you ever noticed that most obtrusive folks in the world usually get finally located in a most secluded portion of the church-yard?

And we wouldn't mind going to church a bit if we heard more of what we didn't know and less of what we do know and it didn't take so long to hear it.

After four years the smartaleckist Fish in the world always thinks about one-tenth as much of themselves and folks in general think about ten times as much of them.

But when it's all over nicknames last much longer than "Misters" and "Professors." Whadyesay?

Merlin A. Miller (announcing the Lyceum number: "And the lady wishes me to state further that all her evening clothes were destroyed in the fire." And just when we were going to offer our long coat to the occasion she appeared!—Evidently she had saved a few old rags.

RABBI'S RAVINGS

WHEN you've gone

FOR several days

WITHOUT that letter that

YOU'D rather have than

ANYTHING in the world

AND you go to the P.O.

IN a kind of discouraged,

DOWN and out, neglected,

TURNED down, dejected,

LONESOME, lost, blue,

SORT of mood and then

HAPPEN to get the very

MISSLE for which you

CRAVED, ain't it great

HOW all of a sudden

SUCH small matters as

STIFF courses and

HARDBOILED profs get

BLOWN sky high and cease

TO mean very much in your

YOUNG life? Oh, Boy!

I'LL say it is!

Moral:—Dark clouds are like circus balloons—they'll get just so big and burst.

VAUDEVILLE AND PICTURES AT THE LYRIC TODAY

We have grand entertainment today for our patrons in the way of pictures and vaudeville. Sessue Hayakawa, the Jap, in "The Tong Man" is especially good if you haven't seen him you must see him tonight.

The Victory Entertainers are to appear at their best on our stage today and tonight. Their specialties consist of pianologues, black-face monologues, piano and xylophone novelties, male voice duets and trios and eccentric dances. In general a high class entertainment with entire change of program each day. Saturday Wm. Desmond in "The Blue Bandana" and vaudeville.
