

alarming. The invitations were not confined to the Baptist boys alone but any who could obtain passes were made welcome and a number of upper-classmen were in attendance.

A most entertaining program was rendered consisting of renditions of some of Bryan's most talented vocal and musical artists. A number of excellent readings were given and met with the highest favor.

The entire affair was informal and each guest wore a tag bearing his or her name. The students were not slow to make the most of their opportunity and everyone enjoyed himself to the utmost. Rev. and Mrs. Held of the Baptist church in Bryan aided Mr. and Mrs. Brown in welcoming the College boys and in keeping pleasure-making at highest ebb.

Toward the end of the evening the climax was reached when ices and cakes were served. The chief refreshments were just the kind that "mother used to make" and with their Mess Hall training, the visiting students were considerably in prominence during this phase of the entertainment. As all girls came "un-dated" many boys were enabled to enjoy the perfect end of a perfect day and escort some fair damsel to her home—thereby learning the way so as to make use of his knowledge again.

Appeals were many and hearty for an early repetition of the social and promises were obtained that their wishes would be granted.

FEDERAL STUDENTS TAKE UP CLASS WORK.

"At the opening of the session, approximately one hundred and forty Federal Students were ready to take up class work along lines leading to their complete rehabilitation and preparation for careers, which will make them useful and valuable citizens," according to Elmer C. Nash, Coordinator, Texas A. and M. College.

"Something like one hundred of those registered for the first term are old men who have had at least one year at the institution. Almost everyone has returned very anxious to get to work again after a few weeks rest, and with a determination to make good in their respective courses. It might be of interest to know that there were about ten per cent of the Federal Students distinguished in their course the last school term. When we take into consideration the fact that the majority of these men have been out of class work for several years, and were unaccustomed to college life and environment, we can readily understand why this record furnishes proof that they are in school for the good they can get out of it.

"Among the Federal Students are several old A. and M. men. John Mizell, Harmon W. Egger, William R. McLaury, and Fred E. Grothaus are in training under the direction of the Federal Board, and have been at A. and M. from two to four years each.

"Because of lack of housing facilities it has been necessary for a number of these men to live in Bryan, but they are not the kind that will let this inconvenience hinder them from obtaining the training they are after."

AN EX-BUCK'S DREAM OF HEAVEN.

9 A.M.—Is awakened by Gabriel's playing "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" on his golden trumpet.

9:30 A.M.—Leisurely arises from the billowy cloud on which he has slept and tries out his new wings. His breakfast of chicken, ice cream and strawberry shortcake, served by a dainty angel of the opposite sex. Chuckles with glee as he notices that his loose flowing robe has no buttons.

10 A.M.—Is assigned his ex-lieutenant for a dog-robber.

10:15 A.M.—Is put in charge of a fatigue squad composed of his former sergeants. Sits on the top step and encourages them with abuse as they police the Golden Stairs.

10:30 A.M.—Is detailed to take a detachment of corporals below and see that they are properly burned.

11 A.M.—Learns to play the latest jazz music on his new harp.

11:30 A.M.—Witnesses Saint Peter's refusal to admit his old top kick and chortles with delight.

11:30 A.M.—Slings the bull with Ananias, who finally admits himself beaten.

12 M.—Gleefully watches his old mess sergeant doing K. P. in the Heavenly Cook Shack.

12:15 P.M.—Is served a dainty lunch by his striker, who is forced to atone for his past misdeeds by eating canned willie and hardtack.

12:45 P.M.—Swaps army yarns with George Washington, Napoleon and David. David discloses that cooties were not wholly unknown in his day.

1:30 P.M.—Draws a new crown from his old supply sergeant.

1:40 P.M.—Bawls out Noah for taking a pair of cooties with him on the ark.

2 P.M.—Loses his crown in a crap game. Puts in requisition for a new one, declaring that his has been stolen.

2:15 P.M.—Meets an old Buddy. Both exclaim, "How in hell did you sneak in?"

2:30 P.M.—Enters a fish story contest with Jonah.

3 P. M.—Complains to Saint Peter because the shade of his former hard-boiled major has been allowed to enter the Pearly Gates.

3:30 P.M.—Swaps the Golden Stairs to an unsophisticated angel (from Alfalfa Center, Iowa), for his crown.

4 P.M.—Visits Hell and taunts a leatherneck doing Military Police duty there. Superintends the cremating of the man who invented slum.

5 P.M.—Goes bathing in the old swimming hole in the Styx.

6 P.M.—Is given fourths at evening mess.

7 P.M.—Fills a date with a peach with long silky wings.

8 P.M.—Reads bulletin saying: "Only those with the rank of corporal or higher are compelled to heed the call of taps at 10 p.m."

10 P.M.—Turns in with the gang just to be sociable.—American Legion.
