"THE EYES OF TEXAS ARE UPON US!"

One compliment which has always been paid by the University of Texas students and alumni to their arch rivals, the students of Texas A. and M. College, is that the men in the bleachers are solidly behind the team and that they show it by the fact that they are solidly behind the yell leaders and obey their instructions.—Daily Texan.

STUDENT OPINION.

No doubt there were reasons for doing away with the old system of writing checks on the Exchange and substituting the so-called "Receipt" plan. A few worthless checks were doubtless given and the Fiscal Department suffered because of it, but that, nevertheless, does not make the present plan satisfactory. The Exchange, as we understand it, was established for the benefit of the student body, to promote convenience in handling and caring for the students' money. In past years it has served its purpose well and has been of much service to the student body. But just now we feel justified in making complaint; for the inconvenience of having your money locked up in a vault in the Fiscal Office and not being able to check it out is felt by the entire student body. Suppose, for instance, you get an emergency call to go home, after the Fiscal Office has closed. Unless you happen to have enough money in your pocket at the time, which isn't generally the case, you have no way of getting it except by borrowing, and that's not satisfactory. We wonder if the standard of honor is not sufficiently high among the student body of this institution to allow money exchange through checks as is the case in any kind of an ordinary bank, which has to deal with all kinds of people. We believe it is and that the old system of allowing checks to be used should be re-established.

UNCLE JOHN'S ADVICE.

1. Dear Uncle John: My girl writes that she don't like me—says I'm too short. What shall I do? "Shorty" Sherrill. Answer: I'm afraid she wasn't speaking of your height but as you are now Social Secretary the dances ought to allow you to overcome the difficulty.

2. Dear Uncle John: Having credit for M. S. 401 practice in Registrar's office, I desire to be excused from drill. Petition to P. M. S. & T. returned "disapproved." What shall I do? Answer: A military funeral in your favor would solve matters.

3. Dear Uncle John: Have two troopers too small for horses in Troop A. What do you advise? Answer this week, please. Todda Forbes. Answer: Let 'em ride goats or carry music in the band.

4. Dear Sir: Would like information as to how I may pass at least 50 per cent of present Seniors in public speaking? Prof. Brackett. Answer: Give 'em credit for after-taps-corner-room-orations.

5. Dear Unk: Why do they call my "old lady" "T. B." Lewis? Tom Potts. Answer: "T. B." stands for two things and he hasn't tuberculosis!

6. Uncle John: Colonel Barnes read an order stating that woolen shirts would be worn to the corps dance. Did they wear anything else? A. Fish. Answer: Yes, holes in shoe soles and Mess Hall floor. Also, bee vee dees and sundry other garments.

FOM THE SIDELINES.

The official report of the game will show that the score was close, but O boy! That doesn't begin to express it! Several times we "put near" stopped breathing. Then like as not in a minute or two, that old heart would palpitate just like the first night we ever had a date. O, boy!

And speaking of long quarters, it seemed the timers were like the man in the moon—a quarter a week!

Mahan and Kitts share the stellar roles. But it was demonstrated that neither team was a one-man team and many names were whispered along the sidelines. One could easily hear the name of Weir. Many sang in the chorus about Morris. Another popular was Gouger. And another one was Wilson. For S. M. U. there are a few. Among their lot, there's Cooper, Brooks, Newton and Scott.

Perhaps the most exciting run was made by Mahan when he seemed in the best form in returning the kick-off fifty yards right through the whole team only to be stopped by the very last opponent.

The free-kick Kitts made from the forty-two yard line struck the cross-bar about an inch too low. It bounded inside the field of play. The least breeze might have carried it over. Everybody held their breath and, O, boy! the suspense was awful!

Very few injuries are reported, save the using up of the nerves and the heart action.

Before and after the game the descendants of Venus were seen in action not only against the team but also against other A. and M. men who "had business" in the community. These representatives of cupid pierced our men with their little bows and arrows and struck them squarely with little golden swords. But that kind of torture is wonderful if you can take the unanimous vote of the wounded as being true.

The Fish demonstrated that they are beginning to learn something of this old A. and M. Spirit for they won their game (by request) with flying colors. A good game is reported but our own beloved Fish just naturally out-classed them, that's all.

We wonder what caused St. Lingenbo to revert to the language of La Belle France the other day when he wanted to buy something in the Exchange Store.

We wonder what causes the Artillery's mascot, Sgt. King, to don the glad rags every night? Well, anyhow, good luck!

Prof. Mr. Burns, can you tell me which is the best way to dry, or rather drain a swamp? Sgt. Maj. L. L. Burns: Plant rubber trees, sir.

Capt. Tuttle: Can anyone tell me which is the most important organization in the army?

Fish: The Regimental Staff, sir.

Brackett: Mr. Thompson, can you tell me what is meant by a devil worshiper?

Red, getting hungry: A devil worshiper, sir, is a Prof. that will keep his class 'til 12 o'clock.

Bryan girls, discussing the recent Corps Dance: "And, Oh, haven't they got a cute social secretary?"

AGGIES PEELED SCALPS OF BOYS FROM PHILLIPS

and downed the man. The way in which they covered punts was the cause of Phillips being unable to make returns. At the guard positions, Dieterich and Murrah were a terror to the opponent's line and had the Phillips' punter rushing his punts so that they would not be blocked. Great credit goes to Anglin, the Aggie center, for the way he played the game—no gains were made through him and on the defensive he clearly outclassed his man.

The old Aggie fighting spirit manifested itself both in the cadet corps and more especially in the team that was out on the field doing all it could for the Maroon and White. The type of football displayed by the Aggies was sure sickening to the scouts present and especially to Texas U. We wonder now if the teams over the state are saying that the Aggies are a defensive team and that once scored on in a game can be beaten? Of course we don't know how the Aggies would act after they were once scored on for we have not been scored on yet and all we can do is wait for some team that is good enough to score on us to pull the stunt. Phillips came down expecting to win the game on a field goal, but they were never close enough to kick at the Aggie goal and only made first down three times during the entire game, two of these were off of penalties and one was made when they completed the only forward pass of the game. The Aggies relied on straight football and never attempted to pass during the entire game. The Aggies pulled an outside kick which would have resulted in a touchdown had the ball not been touched by a Farmer who was not on side. The Phillips' line did not live up to its reputation and was unable to meet the charge of the Aggies; several times during the game punts were blocked by the A. and M. men. The feature of the entire game was the way in which the Aggie men followed the ball and this accounts for the many fumbles recovered by the A. and M. team.

The interference of the Aggie machine worked with clock-like precision and met with such success that it took the Phillips men off their feet and left them wondering at the end of the game how the Aggies improved so in one week's time. We have left Phillips and their smiling coach behind, and now are looking forward to the Oklahoma game to be played at Stillwater next Saturday.
