WITH THE OLDTIMERS.

Frances Jane Puckett, born November ninth, nineteen hundred twenty, Mr. and Mrs. David Mills Puckett. Mr. Puckett is a '14 graduate.

Charley DeWare, an old A. & M. football captain from Brenham was down to imbue the ends with some of the Aggie fighting spirit that can be induced by the heroes of other days. Charley is a friend of every Aggie and one of the strongest supporters in the state. The Navasota bottoms are never too bad for him to steer his cut-down Lizzie through the mud to witness the Farmers in action. His presence on the field is always a pleasure to the students and brings forth a shout of greeting.

Tim Griesenbeck, 3-letter-man of '17, and a member of that year's team, was also on the campus for several days prior to the game. His talk to the corps was of the pep-producing type. We are proud hosts to such men as Old Tim.

"Scotty" Alexander, '20, end on that Championship team of '19, visited the college for a few days before the State-A. & M. conflict. Scotty also gave the corps one of his brief, yet deep-from-the-heart talks that signify the feeling an old A. & M. man bears towards his school.

Dudley S. (Wrinkles) Moore, was in Austin to see the A. and M. vs. T. U. game and came on to College Station to attend the Thanksgiving Hop.

Sam Matthews, old C 2nd man, 1916, has been on the Campus this week, attended the game in Austin and the Thanksgiving Hop.

Robert Blair otherwise "Catfish" Goodman, was on the ground to lead a few yells at the Thanksgiving game. He seemed much at home in the Mess Hall and trips the light fantastic in a manner peculiar to "Catfish" at the Hop. "Catfish" is located with a gas concern, the only A. and M. man on record who has chosen the profession in keeping with the underlying training of the school.

Major Briggs, formerly of the 2nd Bu. 2nd Reg., is back on the Campus after seeing the game at Austin. Briggs has delayed his return visit to the school until only the old guard were left to welcome him.

J. A. Darby is here and looking over the institution and grounds as an alumni. It surely looks good to see the old timers come meandering back.

James E. (Pinkie) Wilson of the Cast Iron Quartet, was over to see the game in Austin and came over for the Hop.

R. F. (Pete) Foley was another visitor to the Austin game and couldn't resist the call of the Louisiana Five at the Thanksgiving Hop.

George W. Petzet, last year's graduate and now residing in Dallas, accompanied by Miss Clara Nell McLaughlin of S. M. U. and Miss Rebecca George, are here for the Hop after seeing the game in Austin.

J. C. (Slippery Hank) Calhoun of Teneha, former clog dancer of old D-T is very much on the Campus. "Hank" says that about this time of year all the trains seem to run this way.

A. C. (Concrete) Lloyd, ex-21, agreeably surprised his friends by stepping out of his haunts of Jasper and returning to A. and M. for the Hop.

Old timers galore, and alumni far too numerous to mention were seen at the game at Austin. That's the spirit that the school is proud of and The Battalion wishes to express itself in saying that A. and M. stands open for your return and will welcome you to College when time permits your visit.

JACK F. MAHAN.

In another place in this issue the reader will find a record of Jack's football career. He is known on every campus and gridiron of the Southwest. A relentless player, clean, but determined, he has won the respect and admiration of every football player in the South.

But to us who know him best, say more for him. He gave more of his ability to this institution than any man in recent years. He has proved an athlete in his playing and in his conduct off the field. He has been an example and an inspiration to all who know him by personal contact. Level-headed, determined and clean he has been a leader in every activity he has ever entered and those at A. and M. have been various and sundry.

In the social life of this College, Jack has twice been president of his class. As a student he made the Junior Stock Judging Team and had he not been so engrossed with the team of which he was captain, would have made the Senior Stock Judging Team this year.

A good all-around sport, clean and loyal; a student not only passing all work, but with high averages; an athlete of the highest type being on

MISSIONARY FROM CHINA FIELDS AT A. AND M.

Rev. Ben Rowland and Wife of Ying Tak, China, Will Speak to A. and M. Students Tomorrow Night

No devotional services will be held on the Campus Sunday night as there will be a union meeting in Guion Hall to hear Rev. Ben Rowland and wife of Ying Tak, China, address the students on "China's Challenge to A. and M." With the experience of many years in China's fields Rev. Rowland and Mrs. Rowland are expected to make talks of great interest to students in all courses. The need for men of all professions will be taken up and especially the many and varied fields of work for A. and M. students in China will be discussed. Mrs. Rowland will probably appear in Chinese costume and render songs and speeches in the native language. Reverends Brown and Vivion, Student Pastors, especially urge all their groups to be present as there will be no devotional meetings Sunday. All students are requested to attend.

GIRLS PRESENT STORIES AND SONGS OF THE 60s

Bess Gearheart Morrison To Be At College With Old Fashioned Girls Costume Program.

The cadets and students of A. & M. will have a rare treat Friday night, December 3, at Guion Hall when the Y. M. C. A. presents its third Lyceum number for the ensuing year. In the attractive hoop skirts, hand mitts and "bunnits" of the Civil War days this troupe of girls will offer many stories and songs of the times. The thrilling old martial airs such as "Tramp, Tramp," "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys" and "Tenting Tonight." The sectional songs such as "Yankee Doodle" and "Dixie" will be rendered. The lively tunes of "Seeing Nellie Home" and "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" will also be included in their repertoire. The evening will be filled with instrumental selections, readings, and vocal numbers of strong appeal to such an audience as A. & M. provides.

TEXAS AGGIE MELEE

The Thanksgiving football game between Texas University and Texas A. & M. is causing some speculation in our community among local fans. Many believe State has the most powerful aggregation ever assembled in a Southern institution while others maintain that A. & M. is the superior with the powerful Mahan and the million dollar toe of Higginbotham.

An amusing bet has been entered into by two of our young citizens, viz: Charles James Frey and Carl Lewis Estes. Estes agrees, that if the farmers lose he will, on his hands and knees, crawl from Commerce Hotel around the Square to Commerce Undertaking Co., thence east to Post Office and back to the Hotel in full view of the populace.

If Texas loses, Frey agrees to roll Estes around the same identical course in a wheel barrow—Commerce Signal.

HERE AND THERE

The Battalion is patting itself on its back. A few issues ago it advocated the cleaning up of the space between Mitchell and the Y. M. C. A. We do not know if that article did the work, but we like to flatter ourselves to that extent anyhow.

What would you say if the department of Modern Languages should require you to put in about seven hours a week extra work? Or if it required you to go to its movies? The department of M. S. & T. has no more control over our free time than any other department.
