MIDNIGHT MUSINGS.
Yes, we have permanently given up the idea of buying a new overcoat for the holidays.
And the effects won't all be over by Christmas—we hope our girl wasn't counting on anything special.
We have decided that Charlie can mend those shirts we had planned on discarding a few weeks ago—that is if we can do it on credit.
There was a time when we had a girl at C. I. A. and since that telegram came last Friday we are going to make an effort to get a renewal!
It's about this time when the old boys write home to sis to hold any mail that comes in an official Registrar's Office envelope—it's nothing important of course but sis does like two-pound boxes!
We have one consolation, we weren't exactly flush before Thursday and the football game took our pile. We have nothing to lose on the Chess and Stock Judging teams. If we'd had it we'd have lost it though.
A man told us at the Driskill that he bet on A. and M. and lost but that it didn't worry him—he'd have bet on the Aggies if he had known they were going to lose! And he never went to A. and M. a day in his life! The closest he ever came was when he sold shoes to Bryan merchants. That's the sort of attraction A. and M. has.
If caps and blouses had been invented in the days of witchcraft there would have been no need of the wooden stocks provided for the discomfort of the suspects. A uniform No. 1 would have served as well. Even the army has now adopted the roll lapel coat of British style.
We haven't observed a single Aggie going capless yet.
The University rooters in the yellow shirts put up a keen showing but what if it had rained!
Yep, they were pretty considerate. They didn't even pull the shirt-tail dance until the second A. and M. special had pulled out of the yards.
It has been something of a mystery why the trainlights were extinguished on the return from Austin. Well no one needs a chaperone in the light is the way we look at it and the trains were well supplied.

EXCELLENT FARM NEWS IS DISTRIBUTED.
Extension Service Semi-Monthly Publication Is of Unusual Interest to Agricultural Students.
The November issue of the Extension Service Farm News is an excellent addition to the Ag students' collection of bulletins and references. The number is especially related to Horticulture in Texas with articles on home orchard varieties, insect pests, grape culture, berry culture, and fig culture in the state. Messrs. W. B. Lanham, M. E. Hays, R. R. Reppert, and E. A. Miller have contributed on these subjects. Messrs. F. W. Kazemier and T. J. Conway have articles in reference to the Egg Laying Contest at the Experiment Station. It is of interest to note the position won by Texas pens in competition with those from the nation-famed poultry farms of the north. The copies of the Farm News may be had by calling at the mailing room of Gathright Hall. If the News is desired at your home, leave the address with Mr. S. C. Hoyle, editor, who will send it free upon application.
A cat so bold sat hunched on the floor as cats so bold will do, She tucked her head and folded her feet and waited an hour or two. At last a rat came strutting thru an ominous looking crack. This made pussy rely on her four paws. Cause the rat had soaked her maw with Tanlac. The rat reared back when she saw the cat, and said with much disdain: "You've licked me once, you've licked me twice, you'll never lick me again, For years and years I've been a drudge; sickly since time was dim. But a bottle fell off the shelf, I drank it myself now I'm full of vim." Pooling her thoughts and racking her brain of five senses for this cue, Pussy decided it wasn't right to stage a fight so she bid the rat adieu. Pussy had regard for her felines as pussies should; she wasn't so very dense, If she had to die she would rather lie in the alibi defense. As Tanlac brags of seventeen per the rat was mischief bent, But though poor pussy had nine lives she only had one purr scent. —Annie Nonymus.

OUR IDEA OF A COSMOPOLITAN.
A Russian Jew in England with an Italian wife, smoking Egyptian cigarettes near a French window in a room with a Turkey carpet on the floor. If this man drank American cream sodas while listening to a German band playing "Come Back to Erin", after a supper of Dutch cheese made up as a Welch rarebit, then you might be quite safe in saying that he were a cosmopolitan.—Searchlight.
Rub-My-Tism cures bruises, cuts, sores, tetter, etc.
