THIRD BATTALION HANDS 14-0 DEFEAT TO SIGNAL CORPS.

The line-plunging Infantrymen from the third Battalion vanquished the Signal Corps passing machine on the Varsity Gridiron Thursday. Early in the first quarter, Mitchell connected up with Frazier's long pass, and Buckner in a series of line-plays ploughed through for the initial touchdown, and Hanna kicked goal. Towards the last of the second half, Buckner and Frazier carried the ball down within striking distance and Mitchell connected up with a pass for the second and last touchdown. Hanna again kicked the goal.

The Flag-Waivers came back strong in the second half, and nearly tallied when Vinther's place-kick dropped under the cross bar by a few inches. They resorted nearly entirely to the use of the forward pass, but the backs of the opposing team kept them pretty well covered. Long made a few good gains and Vinther showed up well for the Signalmen, but they were greatly overshadowed by the playing of Buckner and Frazier. Buckner hit the line with a terrific drive and was a consistent ground-gainer, while Frazier swept the ends. Mitchell on the end played a good game, while Dillingham at center and Kimbrough at tackle were the outstanding stars of the line.

BULLETIN BOARD

BAND NOTES.
"The Dallas News" states that a Fish prodigy was discovered in the Band. We haven't been able to find a musical prodigy, but Fish Rosenberg has all the qualifications of a meal prodigy.

We noticed in the court record that a suit is being brought against "Cake and Steak" for a pair of spectacles sent him on approval by a northern firm. "Cheer up Cochran!" you're not the only peddler that has gone broke.

It is a well known fact that women some times use a shoe horn to put on a pair of tight slippers. But Capt. J. A. Walker is the first person that ever had to use a horn to put on a pair of trousers.

"Bobby" Greer says "Bonita is a pretty town and Navasota is not! That's funny!"

The way to a man's heart, etc, you know.

Houston trolley conductor: Say, why didn't you drop the fare in the box?

"Nuts" Weyland: Oh, I thought that was a chewing gum slot machine.

We can't understand. We walked up and down the aisle many times on the Houston train Saturday hoping Rob King would take the hint and introduce us to the lady friend. Again we say, we can't understand.

COMPANY "F" NOTES.

We of 'F' Company are just about to get started on our second term's work. Most of us have just about decided whether or not our new Prof's are going to suit us or not, and we suppose this has about decided whether or not we are to pass the course. Anyway, we are once more even with the world in our work, and we sincerely hope that we manage to stay even instead of getting about three week's behind as did last term. As before Christmas we looked forward to the Christmas holidays, we are now looking forward to that final parade on May 24, but we are hoping to be able to have it said of us, "Well done."

We have several new additions to our personnel. There is one transfer from Company "D". This is J. W. Judgins, a Sophomore. We are glad to welcome him as one of us. There are five new men at A. and M. as well as in the Company. These "Frogs" are King B. Key, Tom A. Tirado, Arthur J. Irwin, J. J. Robbins, and R. F. Morgan. Some of these new arrivals come from other schools, such as Rice and Oklahoma University; while the others come from the High schools. We welcome them with ready handclaps and assure them that we shall do our utmost to make life interesting and pleasant for them.

We neglected to tell you last week about how one of our members, Jno. B. Clayton by name, severed intimate relations with us sometime ago and went to Columbia, Mo., to take unto himself a wife. We regret that Jno. saw fit to take this fatal step, but we wish him all the happiness that it is possible for any man to attain. P. E. Roddy, Clayton's roommate, life-long friend, and best man at the recent wedding has returned to us. He gives a glowing account of the wedding and of the bride and of how he kissed the bride. Personally, we have our doubts, but then you can't always tell but as how he might have.

Now, just because we have "Almonds" in our Company, it is not to be supposed or understood that we are a bunch of nuts.

Fish Edwards tells us that the only thing that he can do on an empty stomach is eat.

A. H. DEPARTMENT NOW HOUSES IN NEW BUILDING

and one at the center of the front side on the north, admit to the arena and doors on the left and right sides of the passage ways from the entrance to the arena give admittance to the offices and class rooms constructed underneath the tiers of seats, in the space between the outer circle of the arena and the outer walls of the building.

There are two large offices and two class rooms in the east end and also in the west end. An office opens on each side of the entrance passageway and each office adjoins a class room, there being one in each of the four corners of the building. These class rooms are accessible either through the office adjoining or by doors that open to the outside. Similarly there are two adjoining rooms on either side of the entrance passage way on the north or front side. For the present these are to be utilized for storage rooms and libraries, but they are fitted to be converted into a reading room, locker room, wash room and lavatory, which will be done at an early date. On the south side of the building are twelve stalls for animals to be kept at intervals when they are being used in judging classes held in the arena.

The appropriation of $40,000 was insufficient to complete the building in 1916, so the office and class rooms were never finished. The doors to these rooms were locked and not everyone on the Campus knew that they even existed. The amphitheater has been used by the Animal Husbandry Department for stock judging classes, and various entertainments have been held there. The department maintained its old offices in the Agricultural building and the new building has been referred to as the Stock Judging Pavilion.

It is, however, the Animal Husbandry Building and will be recognized by that designation now, since the department has really taken up quarters there. The offices vacated in the Agriculture building will be occupied by P. K. Whelpton, professor of Farm Management and F. Hensel, associate professor of Horticulture, head of the Landscape Art Division.

Professor Templeton, head of the department occupies the office on the right of the entrance in the west end. On the other side of his is the office of Professors Alford and Walser.

Prof. W. L. Stangel and Prof. Buchanan occupy the office in the northwest corner, and Professors Williams and Regenbrecht the one on the opposite side of the east entrance.

Each office is equipped with private closets and space for laboratories. Much work remains to be done, however, before they are completed.

666 quickly relieves a cold.
