

the queen and her court. Each college has been allowed to enter five girls in the contest for queen. A picture passed upon by a committee of A. and M. seniors whose judgment of pulchritude is considered good has been entered. The queen will be selected by a committee of Dallas men.

The Ross Volunteers should make a distinct hit in Dallas. The drill will be at night, and it is hard to imagine any sight which could be prettier than the dazzling white uniforms under the brightness of searchlights. The majority of the spectators will hear for the first time the combined salute which is fired as the company enters and leaves the stadium. The silent manual and Butts' Manual will be most impressive. In fact, the whole drill will be a spectacle not often seen in the South.

SENIORS HOLD FIRST CLASS MEETING OF THE YEAR. CLASS OFFICERS ELECTED THURSDAY

The Senior class, upon whose shoulders rests the welfare of the College, had their initial meeting Sunday in the Assembly Hall.

The requisite to all class organization is an election committee. This committee accepts nominees for office, sets the date for school and class election, and holds these elections. Since this is a great responsibility, the men who are selected must be men with a strong sense of justice. Such men were selected. O. C. Anderson, Major of the Second Battalion, was chosen chairman of the election committee, the two other members being R. C. Armstrong, Captain of Company G, and A. E. Flowers, Captain of Troop D.

The first official duty of this committee will be to hold the election for Senior class officers. All nominees must be turned in to the chairman by Wednesday night.

A CORRECTION.

We regret that in the October edition that an error was made in connection with the statement that Bob Pearson, representative of the Johnson Floral Company, distributed carnations. Mr. Pearson is the official representative of The Bryan Nursery and Floral Company, only.

The period bell rang loud and fiercely; the professor of rhetoric closed his book; the class filed out. The bell rang on. A youth reclining in a rear desk, opened his eyes wearily, sat up in his desk, untied his tie and unbuttoned his shirt and said drowsily:

"Dang that alarm clock. Who ever thought of making a guy get up for an 8 o'clock class never was a boy himself." —Texas Ranger.

Prof.: "According to the ancient idea the seat of the emotions was in the liver. Where is the seat of emotions according to the modern idea?"

Student: "On the knees." —Wisconsin Octopus.

AGGIES TO PARADE AGAIN BEFORE THE WACOTTES

Cadet Corps Will Pay Annual Visit To The Cotton Palace at Waco.

The ties of friendship proved too strong for the Seniors, so the Corps will visit the "big-hearted" city of Waco again; to the "City With a Soul" that has been the scene of many Aggie triumphs and celebrations in the past years. Old men go back to renew acquaintances and to see friends made on former trips; the Fish will have the field before them with the opportunity to make new conquests. If history is to repeat itself, the Cadet Corps will have an enjoyable trip and many a female heart will be crushed by shiny brass and the traditional olive drab.

Waco and the Cotton Palace officials are going to give the Aggies the same considerations and privileges that have always been ours while in their city. Two tickets representing the price of one square meal, or by proper management, two, are to be given each cadet together with a ticket to the game. You are given the city men, but remember to leave it in the same condition as you find it upon arrival.

And last, remember the purpose of our trip—and BEAT BAYLOR.

SOLVED AT LAST

A flapper is a little, bobbed-haired girl who paints, powders, rouges her lips and pencils her eyebrows and then says: "Clothes, I'm going down town. Want to hang on?" —Centre Colonel.

PERSEVERING

He (over the phone): "What time are you expecting me?"

She (icily): "I'm not expecting you at all."

He: "Then I'll surprise you."

—Awwan.

SOCKS DOWN?

Little Boy: "Looko ma, the circus has come to town, there's one of the clowns."

Ma: "Hush, darling. That's not a clown. That's just a college man." —Beanpot.

"Talk about torture—"

"Yes?"

"Nothing is worse than sitting in a barber's chair with your mouth full of lather, watching the boy trying to give another customer your new stiff-brim Stetson."

Fish—"See that one-legged man over there?"

Menke—"Yeah!"

Fish—"He's got one foot in the grave."

Waiter: "It looks like rain."

Gallant Fish: "Yes sir, but it tastes a little like soup!"
